CABINET OFFICERS TO AID RED CROSS IN SPECIAL DRIVE

President Coolidge Names Four Officials To Cooperate With Relief Organization.

GOVERNMENT GIVES ALL POSSIBLE AID

Secretary Davis Declares That at Least 150,000 People Soon Will Be Forced From Homes.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—The nation was appealed to today to contribute $5,000,000 for the relief of thousands stricken by the Mississippi valley floods.

A special campaign to raise that amount was decided upon by Red Cross officials after a conference with four members of President Coolidge's cabinet, appointed by him to coordinate government relief activities with those of the Red Cross.

Earlier in the day the president issued a proclamation urging contributions to the Red Cross to carry on its work.

The cabinet committee, comprising Secretaries Hoover, Mellon, Willbur and Davis declared the disaster to be of the first magnitude after canvassing Red Cross reports showing that 75,000 persons were homeless in the flooded area.

More Breaks Expected. The $5,000,000 fund was decided upon after Secretary Davis presented war department reports indicating that further breaks in levees along the Mississippi river were expected and could not be prevented. He estimated that 150,000 persons would be forced from their homes within the next few days.

Secretary Hoover was designated chairman of the special campaign committee, its other members including the three secretaries and James L. Finner, acting chairman of the Red Cross. The committee agreed with President Coolidge, as he set forth in his proclamation, that the burden of providing relief rests with the Red Cross and that government activities should be co-ordinated by the cabinet members and employed through the relief organization.

Extent of federal assistance will be worked out at subsequent conferences. Officials of the public health service have arranged to hold themselves in readiness for emergencies should disease following in the wake of the floods become epidemic. Coast guard boats already are participating in relief work, as will three seaplanes sent by the navy from the Pensacola, Fla., station. The war department has drawn heavily upon its surplus supplies, having shipped to refugee concentration centers 14,533 war tents, 16,207 pyramidal tents, 11,102 cots and 27,405 blankets. Clothing for national guard troops called out at some points also has been supplied, along with 14,000 burlap bags for levee protection in Illinois.

Takes Keen Interest. At the white house President Coolidge was represented as taking a keen interest in the situation and hoped that a generous response would greet his own and Red Cross appeals for contributions. It was emphasized that

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH?

The other evening we heard a gentleman recite that famous poem: "Life is real, life is earnest," and it occurs to us just now that thousands of women realize that every Saturday morning when they are confronted with the task of purchasing the food for a family to last over Sunday.

The children who remark: "Oh, the same old thing for dinner," cannot realize how real and earnest the things of this life are to mother.

Fortunately the grocery, market and produce advertisements in The Constitution are wonderful helps in planning the various meals. Everything on the market is listed and priced. As she reads The Constitution advertisements new ideas, and new combinations occur to her.

It simplifies the task of selecting as well as that of purchasing. She may have variety and still keep within her budget limit for foodstuffs.

Jury Selected To Try Slayers of Art Editor

BY SAM LOVE.

New York, April 22.—(United News.)—Twelve stout, solid men—12 middle aged, middle class citizens—12 men distinguished by nothing from the average American, are ready to consider the matter of life or death for Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray.

It took a week of laborious cross-questioning and even of threatening, to obtain the jury to weigh the strange and gruesome murder of Albert Snyder, 45, art editor of Motor Boating.

Three hundred, eighty and eight talesmen, a dozen at a time, were examined by the probing, droning voices of eight lawyers—the bright eyes of the man and woman on trial for their lives.

Things are about to move swiftly for the two pairs of bright eyes, the fair cleft chin and the shaved cleft chin. The tedious drudgery of finding a jury is over. The twelfth juror was sworn to service at 7:45 o'clock Friday night. Before sundown Monday the state of New York expects to have established by witnesses the corpus delicti.

Having satisfied the court that Albert Snyder has been dead since March 20, District Attorney Richards Newman plans to proceed quickly to reveal legally who murdered him in his Queen's Village home. As he will explain in the prosecution's opening statement Monday morning, the state contends that the widow, Mrs. Snyder, and her lover, Judd Gray, the genial car salesman, disposed of Snyder. They have confessed, the state contends, to killing the husband with a window weight and piece of picture wire while he slept in his Queen's Village home. His state and defense opening statements will be compressed into less than three hours' time, it was forecast.

The state's array of witnesses will be comparatively small—police, officials, a neighbor or two, the coroner, detectives, etc.

A rumor that Mrs. Snyder was unseated as a state witness ready in this manner to testify to fix the crime solely on her former lover, with out the necessity of cross-examination, could not be confirmed.

Easier to confirm was the defense plan in regard to the character of the divided defendants. Many witnesses will swear that Judd Gray was a fine fellow and an upright citizen. Many others are anxious to testify that the blonde, Mrs. Snyder, was without a peer as a wife, mother and model of suburban virtues.

Two sad-faced, ageing women sat in court Friday. They sat near each other, exchanging not a glance, though their offspring were on trial for the same crime—the murder of Albert Snyder, a husband whose presence had been undesirable.

Mrs. Margaret Gray was there to lend aid and comfort to her son. She regarded the women he has said teased him with cold curiosity. Leanness has come to her with age and a certain grim smartness of dress and manner.

Mrs. Josephine Brown was there to help her Ruth. She is a little woman who has become somewhat stout. Her spectacles have thick lenses. Her glance, when it alighted on the car salesman, was as chilly as Mrs. Gray's when it touched Mrs. Snyder. But for her Ruth she had nothing but understanding, compassion plainly registered.

As Henry Judd Gray had posed for pictures with his mother the day previously, Mrs. Brown took advantage of the noon recess to pose with her daughter, but for her Ruth she had nothing but understanding, compassion plainly registered.

The staff of "trained sons" aiding the regular press to cover the trial had just been augmented by Natacha Rambova, divorced wife of the late Rudolph Valentino.

Miss Rambova's entrance was a triumph. She wore a black broad tail coat as gleaming as polished ebony. Her head was encased in a turban of black lace and feathers. Her hair braided coils of hair covered her ears like so much spun glass.

Unlike Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Miss Rambova made no pretense of taking notes, but examined the defendant, Gray and Snyder, with a bright smile. Gray was impervious to the examination, being occupied with jurors who

COMMUNISM SEEN AS ENDANGERING PEACE OF ORIENT

Declares Legitimate Aspirations of China Receive Interest and Sympathy of His Country.

Tokyo, April 22.—(United News.)—A warning to Soviet Russia and an outline of Japanese policy in China is combined in the first statement to the press from Premier Baron Tanaka.

Declaring that communistic dangers in the neighboring country of China were a menace to Oriental peace, and as such could not be tolerated by Japan, Premier Tanaka expressed the belief that "the friendly neighbor, Russia," would well understand his announcement. Japan, he pointed out, was directly and vitally interested in the peace of the far east.

Legitimate aspirations of China receive the interest and sympathy of Japan, as well as other nations, Tanaka declared. Such aspirations may be obtained, he added, without the necessity of creating grave issues with other countries. He said that he trusted China would seriously consider this point.

As for the immediate situation in China, Tanaka observed that Japan would cooperate with the powers in activities there. But this cooperation does not mean that Japan will act blindly, he added, expressing the belief that it would be better to consider each problem in China as such problem arises.

Japan will continue to work with the powers for the peace of the world and the well being of mankind, he concluded. The premier made only general promises regarding the Japanese financial situation which has been made difficult by temporary closing of the Bank of Formosa and destruction of a 21-day bank moratorium throughout the country.

REVERSAL OF JAPANESE POLICY IS PREDICTED. London, April 22.—(United News.)—A complete reversal by Japan of her policy in China is seen by London ob-

Gets 30 Years For Attempt On Il Duce

Former Deputy Is Sentenced for Part in Italian Assassination Plot

Rome, April 22.—(United News.)—Former Deputy Tito Zaniboni was sentenced Friday to 30 years' imprisonment for his attempted assassination of Premier Mussolini.

General Luigi Capello and Angelo Uccello, the former alleged by the prosecution to have been a ringleader in Zaniboni's plot against the premier and the latter one of the other alleged conspirators, also received the maximum penalty.

Attorney General Norsa, in summing up the case, had asked the 30-year penalty for all three men. Others mentioned in the verdict were: Ulysses Ducci, who was sentenced to a 12-year term; Ferruccio Nicoloso, who received 10 years; Calisto Riva, to seven years; Calligaro Angelo, to four months, and Ezio Celotti, who was acquitted.

He asserted this was contrary to the teachings of Jefferson, who said: "That is the best government which governs least."

"The so-called fascist 'charter of labor' is a proclamation of enslavement in that it reduces the working people subject to it to a condition of industrial servitude," Green said. "It is a blow at human freedom and sets up compulsory methods in industry for private initiative and freedom of contract. It completely destroys the principle and processes of collective bargaining."

Green said the "charter of labor" showed that "Dictator Mussolini believes the best government is that which governs most."

EYES NOW TURN TOWARD ARRIVAL OF OPERA STARS

Galli-Curci, First of Troupe To Arrive, Due in City Today With Native Atlanta Managers.

While steady streams of purchasers wait at the box office to secure the best seats remaining for the eight grand opera performances to be given next week at the auditorium by the Metropolitan Opera company, the interest of Atlanta opera fans is turning to toward the arrival hours and stopping places of the host of famous stars who are coming south for the greatest musical event of the year.

Amelia Galli-Curci, the world's most renowned coloratura soprano, who sings the role of Violetta in "La Traviata" on Monday night, opening the great week of music, will be the first of the galaxy of songbirds to reach the city. Accompanied by her managers—who, incidentally, are both native Atlantans—she will depart from the Crescent Limited at Brookwood station at 5:25 o'clock this afternoon. Her managers are Laurence Evans and Jack Salter.

Madame Galli-Curci will stay at the Biltmore during her visit to the city. On Sunday evening, at 8:40 o'clock, a special train carrying practically all the stars who are included in the Atlanta programs will arrive at the Terminal station. The ballet chorus, electricians, musicians, stage hands and all the other specialists who make up the bulk of the company will roll in on special trains early Monday morning.

The box office at the Cable Piano company will remain open every day next week, except Sunday. It will open at the auditorium at 6 o'clock each evening—even on those evenings when the ticket seller will be declining to do but murmur "sorry, sold out" to late comers.

As usual, no one will be admitted to the auditorium after the performance starts until the end of the first act. Each evening performance will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and the two matinees—Friday and Saturday—at 2 o'clock. So, all who don't wish to miss the opening act had better be comfortably seated before the opening hour commences and the conductor raises his baton.

U. S. LABOR CHIEF HITS MUSSOLINI

Declares There Cannot Be Any Freedom Where People Are Not Left Industrially Free.

Washington, April 22.—(United News.)—The fascist "charter of labor," proclaimed throughout Italy yesterday by Premier Mussolini, was styled today as "a blow at human freedom," an exhibition of "autocracy gone mad," and likened to the principles "underlying the industrial and political policies pursued by the soviet government," in a statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green said the "charter of labor" showed that "Dictator Mussolini believes the best government is that which governs most."

President Calles Departs Catholic Clergy Leaders

Two Archbishops and Four Bishops Are Taken From Homes and Placed on Train to Border.

ACTION FOLLOWS ATTACK ON TRAIN

Government Charges That Bandits Who Engaged in Bloody Slaughter Were Led by Priests

Mexico City, April 22.—(AP)—Six of the foremost members of the Catholic Episcopate have been ordered out of the country and are on their way to Laredo. They were taken from their residences last night by government agents and placed on a train bound for the border.

The deported churchmen are Jose Mora Del Rio, archbishop of Mexico, Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, archbishop of Michoacan, and Bishops Salvador Urango of Cuernavaca; Ignacio Valdespino y Diaz, of Aguascalientes; Gerardo Anaya, of Chiapas, and Jose Maria Echeverria, of Saltillo.

The government's drastic action follows upon recent charges made by General Alvarez, chief of President Calles' staff, that the Catholic episcopate was the main cause of the religious unrest, and had been directing the revolution and inspiring such outrages as that Tuesday night against a passenger train in the state of Jalisco.

The government already has made public reports received by it alleging that three Catholic priests and one delegate of the League for the Defense of Religious Liberty were ringleaders in the Jalisco outrage.

The expulsion of the six prelates, with Bishop Pascual Diaz of Tabasco, expelled three months ago, and Francisco Orozco y Jimenez, of Guadalajara, in hiding, removes the most prominent church leaders from activity in Mexico.

Other prelates still in various parts of the republic also are in hiding, and not a few of the religious leaders have from time to time made their way out of Mexico.

Concurrently with the government's move against the episcopate, a strict censorship was established over all cablegrams and telegrams.

The last official act of the prelates a few hours before the government agent placed them aboard the Laredo train was to issue a statement denying that the Catholic episcopate had fomented rebellion against the government or that priests with the knowledge and authority of the episcopate participated in the train attack.

WOMAN CLEARED OF BURNING CHILD

Girl Had Charged Mother With Torturing Her With Beatings and Hot Curling Iron.

BY FRANK GETTY. New York, April 22.—A skinning, precocious child of 6 sat on the witness stand in special sessions court Friday and admitted that while she understood the difference between truth and falsehood, she frequently "told whoppers."

An hour later the court found her foster-mother, Mrs. Everett Pratt, wealthy Des Moines woman, not guilty of third degree assault charges brought by the children's society on the strength of previous stories of almost unbelievable cruelty told by the little girl.

A six-year-old Roberta Pratt, who had accused her foster-mother of burning her brutally with an electric iron and with sundry beatings, showed little concern over the verdict. Toward Mrs. Pratt and her husband, who took Roberta from a mean hotel in Des Moines to rear her with the benefits of education and wealth, the child displayed the utmost friendliness.

The girl did not seem to realize how close her stories had come to sending her benefactors to prison. It was not that Roberta did not

MEN MOBILIZED TO BUILD LEVEES

Crest of Flood Raging Down River Will Arrive at New Orleans in Two Weeks' Time.

Helena, Ark., April 22.—(AP)—Two thousand refugees are on a crumbling levee, 2 1/2 feet wide, at Knowlton's landing on the Mississippi river, screaming for help, R. P. Beith, a farmer of that section, reported tonight upon his arrival here.

Beith, who is the first man to come out of the Knowlton landing section, declared that the stranded people with their possessions and livestock were stretched along the levee for three miles without shelter and very little food.

The river is rising and Beith said the refugees were badly frightened, men and women crying and screaming for aid.

The steamer Wabash had gone to the levee today and removed 700 victims with their possessions and livestock in two barges, being expected to reach here early tomorrow. As the steamer left the levee, the screams of those left behind followed her.

Beith said some of the refugees had been on the levee for two days. He had come here, 40 miles, in a motorboat.

WITNESSED DROWNING OF EIGHTEEN MEN. The drowning of the 18 men on the government motor launch Pelican was described by Beith, who witnessed it. He said the Pelican was swept by the turbulent current through a break in the levee and overturned. Two of the crew man-

Macon, Ga., April 22.—(AP)—The state game and fish commissioner, Peter S. Twitty, in an order received here today, sanctions fishing in private lakes in counties where county grand juries have put into effect a law prohibiting fishing during the spawning season. Permission of the owners of private lakes must be obtained, however, he says.

The question came up over the advertising of a middle Georgia resort inviting people to fish on this "private property."

NEW DEANS CASE EVIDENCE SLATED

Special session Monday and probably Tuesday will be held by Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court in order to conclude the contest to probate the will of the late Robert E. Deans, brought by Frank Deans, Yale student, to secure his share in the estate as the only legal heir.

This announcement was made late Friday afternoon when it was learned that an additional day would be needed for the plaintiff's attorneys to finish presentation of their evidence, pending to prove the legitimacy of young Deans and other allegations made in their petition.

Rebuttal testimony is slated to begin late Monday afternoon, and arguments will start Tuesday. A decision is expected late Tuesday night as a night session is contemplated to finish the case.

Young Deans brought the petition against W. O. and Charles Deans, executors of the estate, claiming that he was the only son and legal heir to the estate of the wealthy broker. He claims that Mr. Deans was mentally incompetent to make a will at the time the document was drawn and that members of the Deans family and relatives brought to bear undue influence upon the broker just prior to his making the will. The student was not mentioned in the will.

The defense rested its case last Monday a little more than three hours after the case was called and the jury drawn. After the jury was sworn, testimony was then introduced by young Deans' attorneys.

According to the schedule no civil divisions of the superior court were slated to be in session next week but due to urgent requests on the part of attorneys involved in the will case, Judge Howard agreed to hold for two days.

BOYKIN OUT OF CITY, RESTING FOR TRIAL

Absence from Atlanta Friday of Solicitor General John A. Boykin, who is expected to return to the city on Saturday, was announced by the solicitor's office.

Lance is slated to go on trial May 3 before Judge G. H. Howard, in Fulton superior court and the solicitor and his aides have diligently worked overtime of late examining witnesses and procuring additional evidence preparatory to the trial.

While attaches in the solicitor's office would not divulge the destination of Solicitor Boykin, they declared that he "was out of town and is taking a much-needed rest." He is not expected to return before the middle of next week.

There being no criminal divisions of Fulton superior court in session next week and with the semi-weekly meetings of the grand jury postponed, the solicitor's presence in court circles is not absolutely essential for the next several days.

"I was surprised to find such a pronounced and substantial undercurrent in certain supposedly doubtful southern sections for Governor Smith," Mack said. He added that apparently the religious issue now would figure little in the fight for the nomination.

TENNESSEE TO CLAIM WATER POWER RIGHTS

Nashville, Tenn., April 22.—(AP)—Tennessee's general assembly today took steps to join Alabama in asserting state's rights over water powers in defiance of the federal power commission.

The lower house passed without dissenting vote a resolution empowering the state's attorney general to resist by suit or otherwise any effort of the federal government or its agencies to give away rights to develop water powers in Tennessee without first obtaining consent of the state.

At the same time, considering a bill to create a commission to regulate water power development in the state, the house placed a minimum value of $25,000,000 on Cove creek basin, on the Clinch river, which vitally affects the power development below it on the Tennessee river, including Muscle Shoals, to which the state of Alabama recently claimed rights of ownership.

aged to seize life preservers and were believed to have saved their lives. Beth declared, by clinging to a nearby tree, the crew, he said, were trapped in the cabin while the eight others were thrown into the swift current to drown helplessly. The boat was swept down the river for a mile before it was caught on the levee.

Beth said every house in the region was dashed to pieces by the waves.

Knowlton's landing is about 50 miles south of here.

100,000 ARE FLEEING FROM WRATH OF FLOODS

Memphis, Tenn., April 22.—(United Press.)—Charges officially are that a major national disaster, the south-west's greatest flood continues its terrifying sweep over hundreds of thousands of acres, while the federal agencies of relief organize to aid 100,000 homeless.

From a break in the Mississippi levee at St. Louis, Mo., the flood waters swirled across the Mississippi delta, threatening to make homeless an additional vast army of 150,000 and to inundate 2,000 square miles in its southward movement.

Scores of persons are believed to have perished near Greenville, Miss., which was under eight feet of water Friday, and two trainloads of flood refugees were reported lost somewhere in eastern Arkansas.

Disease Feared.—Recognizing the danger of disease and pestilence—already hundreds of cases of cold, mumps and measles have been reported in Arkansas—the United States health department has sent quantities of smallpox and typhoid vaccine and medicaments to the flood area.

Thousands of persons have been mobilized to reinforce levees still unattacked by the swollen river's sweep; hundreds of soldiers guard these levees against attempts to break them, and thousands of humans flee by high ground on foot, horseback and by automobile as the rampant river, which already has flooded more than 4,000,000 acres, surges on their homesteads.

Crest Due Sunday.—The crest of the flood is not due at Memphis until Sunday, but the worst devastation in that section appears ahead. Already government engineers have estimated that approximately 1,000,000 acres in Mississippi will be inundated, when the river reaches its crest.

The largest concentration of flood victims is at Cotton Plant, Ark., where Red Cross workers have reported 12,000 destitute persons. More arrive constantly although only transportation is by boat. Water was lapping the edges of the refugee camp Friday, and there was barely enough dry ground for the next blow would come.

Two trainloads of refugees huddled in 60 box cars left Hughes, Ark., Thursday, and officials of the Missouri Pacific, having no more room for them, sent an airplane to locate the trains. They are marooned in a stretch of five miles of water.

Plan for general aid has been made by Governor Dennis Murphy, of Mississippi. In the Mississippi delta lands and fires from refugee camps shone brightly through the night and hundreds, driven from their homes, lay amid the few household belongings which they had saved, wondering from where the next blow would come.

Proclamation Cheers.—President Coolidge's proclamation calling upon the American people to contribute to the relief of flood sufferers has heartened the destitute, Memphis and the surrounding territory joyfully greeted the decision of the president's special Red Cross committee, under the chairmanship of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, to raise a $2,000,000 relief fund.

The misery of the flood beggars' description. It is unbelievable to those who live in the secure comfort of great cities, who have never experienced the terror of flood. Picture a vast territory through the Mississippi and its tributaries flow. Picture a territory beginning at St. Louis, and including Bogalusa, Ill.; New Madrid and Camp Girardeau, Mo.; Hickman, Ky.; down through vast portions of Arkansas, taking scores of towns and a few cities—taking in Clarendon, Helena, Keo, Marked Tree, Truman, Little Rock, Englewood and Altheimer—still in the flood zone.

Here are eight states in which the flood has spread itself; where houses and cattle and furniture and unrooted trees float where the land begins; where the crown of trees and the

Governor Appeals For Boats, Skiffs

New Orleans, April 22.—(AP)—A stirring appeal for aid was made tonight by Governor Dennis Murphy, at Jackson, Miss., over the telephone to the Times-Picayune here.

"For God's sake, send all the skiffs and motorboats you can to Vicksburg immediately," the governor said. His voice was broken by the emotional strain.

"Tonight we are making an effort to get everybody out of Greenville," he continued. "There is a great flooded area there from which thousands of persons must be rescued, and this rescue can be made only by boat. For God's sake, send us boats."

roofs of houses peer above the dirty surface of yellowish water; from where humans have fled to live in the damp, cold open in equally cold tents and in other people's homes. That is the situation in the south-west, 4,000,000 acres from which Americans earned a comfortable living.

Immense Property Damage

The damage balks estimation. Engineers who pride themselves upon the accuracy of their calculations have said the flood already has cost the region between $20,000,000 and $100,000,000. The property damage simply cannot be figured until stock of the losses is taken.

Greenville, a city of 14,000, was rapidly being evacuated Friday night. Half of the population had fled before the spreading waters and the other half was preparing to leave if the raging, tumbling, murky river encroached further upon their homes.

With the crest of the flood due at Memphis Sunday, thousands more will move from their homes to higher ground.

A forecast of colder weather with probable frost means increase in suffering.

19 Lives Lost

Nineteen lives were lost Thursday when the government launch Pelican was sucked into a whirlpool near Knowlton, Ark. The Tennessee, a river steamer, returned to Memphis Friday with hundreds of refugees picked up from the levees along the river south of here. Memphis has become the semi-official refugee center and the Red Cross and other relief organizations are prepared to take care of thousands.

At Knowlton, Ark., few residents dared to remain in their homes Friday. The city was under 10 feet of water and the death toll was greater hourly. The Arkansas river levee at Pendleton, Ark., has been reported destroyed, turning the flood loose to spread over several small towns and other large section of farm land.

Many Towns Face Flooding.—Although Arkansas remains the greater sufferer, the state of Mississippi is in grave danger of great loss because of the levee break at St. Louis. Bolivar, Sunflower, Washington, Yazoo, Leflore and Warren counties will be flooded as this water flows southward.

The main Mississippi river levee at Albenarle landing, 35 miles from Vicksburg, has crumbled, according to reports, sending masses of the yellow water to the state.

Reports from Hickman indicate the Redfoot levee has been well reinforced after an all-night fight in the past. The levee is being reinforced, and several thousand homeless are being cared for there.

The Quachita river has inundated 800 square miles of territory in Arkansas and Texas. More than 1,000 persons are reported marooned in one Arkansas county alone, Fort Smith, where the water is rising rapidly. The population's woes, and scores of other small towns in Arkansas, with which all communication has been broken, are believed to be suffering from ever increasing flood danger, and from the threat of disease.

The number of homeless at Camden, Mo., has increased. Many towns as flood waters advance into Penitentiary county, Lehigh, Ark., has reported sending a train south to bring in some of the refugees. And so the reports come in.

PRESIDENT APPEALS FOR RELIEF FUND.—Washington, April 22.—(United Press.)—President Coolidge today appealed to the country for a $2,000,000 relief fund for Mississippi river flood sufferers.

A special Red Cross committee under the chairmanship of Secretary of Commerce Hoover was named to direct collection and expenditure of the money. The president in his proclamation said:

"Eight states of the union are suffering one of the most extensive floods in the history of the country. For more than two weeks the waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries, swollen to record volume, have been overflowing and breaking through the levees raised to confine them within their courses. They have deluged millions of acres of agricultural land, inundated many towns and driven thousands of people from their homes. The crest of the flood is advancing southward, daily creating new ruin."

"In the past few days the situation instead of improving, as had been hoped, has been rapidly growing worse. The flood waters have continually forced new breaches in the levees despite the efforts of hundreds of workmen, with consequent increased destruction."

"The American Red Cross reports that, by a most conservative estimate, there are more than 75,000 refugees from the flood who must be cared for by the Red Cross. While this emergency continues, which will be for weeks, these refugees must be fed, sheltered, and clothed. Their health must be protected. In the event that the floods rise to the predicted higher levels in the next few days, the number whose most primary needs must be cared for will probably be doubled or tripled. The situation is, indeed, grave."

"The government is giving aid as far as it is able. Government boats that are available are being used to rescue those in danger and carry refugees to safety. The war department is providing the Red Cross with tents for housing refugees. The national guard, state and local authorities are assisting. But the burden of caring for the homeless rests upon the agencies designated by government charter to provide relief in disaster—the American National Red Cross, Secretary of War Davis, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Red Cross officials."

Vaccines Sent.—Quantities of smallpox and typhoid vaccines were rushed to flooded areas by the war department. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad and Pennsylvania system offered free transportation facilities for shipment of relief supplies. Twenty-seven carloads of tents are en route from Philadelphia to St. Louis. Food supplies and other necessities are being shipped more car loads of tents are to be shipped late today.

Railroad officials ordered all relief trains to run on passenger schedules, assuring speediest transportation. James Thomson, chairman of the Red Cross in New Orleans, called at the white house to appeal for government aid in constructing spillways to protect the lower Mississippi valley.

FLOOD IS DECLARED 'MOST SERIOUS IN HISTORY.'—New Orleans, April 22.—(AP)—The flood situation in Louisiana today was pronounced the "most serious in history" by George C. Schoenberger, chief engineer of the state.

The first official admission that the lower part of the Mississippi valley was facing a crisis due to present high water and high water to come.

"Every inch of the levee in the state along the Mississippi seems to be in good condition but one cannot foresee extraordinary occurrences," Schoenberger said.

"The overflows and breaks in the upper Mississippi valley are not aiding the situation at New Orleans. The situation at the lower part of the Mississippi all the harder to estimate. For the first time in the history of the Mississippi it may come when the Mississippi already is in flood."

The hazard of the situation was increased by the flooding of sections of Concordia and Catahoula parishes, in Louisiana, by backwaters from tributaries of the Mississippi. Concordia was expected to be entirely submerged by backwaters from the Red river and Red Cross officials in the state removal of women and children from Ferriday, across the river from Natchez, Miss.

Constant guard for the levees was asked at different points down the grass-covered hillsides between Baton Rouge and South. Every precautionary measure was taken in St. Louis, where the Mississippi river was still rising a serious situation against the advancing floods, carried on relief work with small gunboats and barges. Several hundred families found refuge here. The Red Cross has assumed control of the relief situation and established soup kitchens.

Additional refugee camps are being established in half a dozen cities along the lower Mississippi valley. An estimated 25,000 persons are being housed in these camps. The Red Cross is checking the spread of disease in the near score of refugee camps.

Thousands of men are working feverishly raising the levees of the lower Mississippi from Baton Rouge to New Orleans in an effort to protect those cities when the flood waters pile up there.

For the protection of New Orleans 500,000 cement bags are being shipped from Birmingham, Ala., to be filled with sand and dirt and placed on the levees.

Children were barefoot and scantily clad in last night's cold.

FLOOD REFUGEES SLEEP ON DIKES.—Greenville, Miss., April 22.—(AP)—Rescued from death in the flood waters which stretch away for scores of miles, hundreds of exhausted men, women and children formed a human topping for the Mississippi river levee here tonight as, wrapped in blankets, they slept on the dikes.

Below them was this city, flooded by waters flowing from the levee break. The Mississippi river water supply was cut off, and by nightfall boats had become the only means of transportation as the city streets were covered with from two to five feet of water.

All day as the flood waters spread nearby rescue boats were sent out with national guardsmen taking people out of trees and from houseboats. These boats were unable to bring in all of the refugees seen in the flood area and apprehension is felt for their safety.

More Boats Leave.—Additional motorboats were expected to arrive tonight to assist in bringing in the marooned.

Three deaths were reported during the day, a negro woman and two children being washed into the current flowing through Paducah, two miles east of here, and drowned. An unidentified national guardsman was reported drowned in the break at Stop's landing yesterday and there also were reports that several negroes were swept to death when the dike went out.

Break in Levee Witnessed By Chicago Mayor's Party

Mr. Doherty, staff writer of The Tribune Press Service, is traveling with the party of William Hale Thompson, which is making the trip down the Mississippi to New Orleans to arouse sentiment in support of waterways from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.—(Copyright, 1927, For The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.) On Board the Steamer Cincinnati, Nearing Vicksburg, Miss., April 22.—We do not know what the rest of the world has heard about flood conditions in the Mississippi valley, we only know what we have seen and heard and that is suggestive of enormous calamities, past, present and pending.

The levees we are passing are holding but are at the breaking point. Another few inches and a few more thousands of miles of home and farm land will be devastated.

We saw one levee break this morning, a tremendous torrent of dirty water hurt itself inland, spreading destruction and perhaps death before it, and carrying a dozen homes swirling away eastward.

Cattle were seen floating, dead or living, we couldn't determine. In the past the people will support the Red Cross in its humane task."

The proclamation and $5,000,000 appeal followed a meeting attended by President Coolidge, Secretary Hoover, Secretary of War Davis, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Red Cross officials.

Quantities of smallpox and typhoid vaccines were rushed to flooded areas by the war department. Every precautionary measure was taken in St. Louis, where the Mississippi river was still rising a serious situation against the advancing floods, carried on relief work with small gunboats and barges. Several hundred families found refuge here. The Red Cross has assumed control of the relief situation and established soup kitchens.

Additional refugee camps are being established in half a dozen cities along the lower Mississippi valley. An estimated 25,000 persons are being housed in these camps. The Red Cross is checking the spread of disease in the near score of refugee camps.

Thousands of men are working feverishly raising the levees of the lower Mississippi from Baton Rouge to New Orleans in an effort to protect those cities when the flood waters pile up there.

For the protection of New Orleans 500,000 cement bags are being shipped from Birmingham, Ala., to be filled with sand and dirt and placed on the levees.

Children were barefoot and scantily clad in last night's cold.

FLOOD REFUGEES SLEEP ON DIKES.—Greenville, Miss., April 22.—(AP)—Rescued from death in the flood waters which stretch away for scores of miles, hundreds of exhausted men, women and children formed a human topping for the Mississippi river levee here tonight as, wrapped in blankets, they slept on the dikes.

Below them was this city, flooded by waters flowing from the levee break. The Mississippi river water supply was cut off, and by nightfall boats had become the only means of transportation as the city streets were covered with from two to five feet of water.

All day as the flood waters spread nearby rescue boats were sent out with national guardsmen taking people out of trees and from houseboats. These boats were unable to bring in all of the refugees seen in the flood area and apprehension is felt for their safety.

More Boats Leave.—Additional motorboats were expected to arrive tonight to assist in bringing in the marooned.

in the city streets today outside American Legion headquarters. The legion and Red Cross have fed from 4,500 to 5,000 persons daily for the past two days.

Twenty-five hundred negroes were marooned in the courthouse tonight. Food was taken to them by boats which were paddled along the water-covered streets leading to the building.

The east of us, in between, a series of small lakes which have backed up and the Mississippi. The levee separates the two bodies of water.

A dozen miles back we saw workmen frantically building up the dikes. We were informed that the Yazoo river had also overflowed and waters were coming toward the Mississippi.

"It must be terrible for the thousands of those islanders had of the coming deluge. There was nothing we could do, just keep on our course. This, indeed, is the worst of the Mississippi delta and is the richest cotton center in the world."

We asked Pilot Carter and Will F. Edwards for an expert opinion on whether flood conditions are worse or better than upstream.

"Worse," said Carter, of course, every levee break releases the tension down stream. The water spreads far and wide and the pressure on levees farther down is slightly lessened.

BURGLARS ACTIVE IN EARLY HOURS OF FRIDAY NIGHT

Burglars visited the Williamson Power company at 66 North avenue Friday night, making away with $5 in cash, a small clock and an overcoat, according to police. The Bunch gasoline filling station at 244 West Peachtree street, just around the corner from the Williamson plant, was entered next. No record of the loss was made at headquarters.

An establishment operated by the Economy Electric company at 30 South Pryor street, was forcibly entered Friday night, police records show. No details of the loss were given.

W. R. Holliday, of 543 West Peachtree street, reported the theft of a platinum wrist watch set with 13 diamonds.

$5,000,000 ASKED FOR RELIEF FUND.—Continued From First Page.

The federal departments have no funds for relief and that while they would do all possible the main burden rests upon the Red Cross.

The cabinet committee is the first ever appointed by a president to cooperate with relief agencies in a national disaster. The $2,000,000 fund is the largest ever requested for domestic use, ranking next to the $11,000,000 called for after the Japanese earthquake. In caring for refugees after the Florida tornado, the Red Cross spent a little more than $4,000,000.

E. B. Douglas, Miami, Fla., member of the Red Cross central committee, attended the conference today and requested that, as expressive of Florida's appreciation of relief accorded during its disaster, he be permitted to assist in some capacity in the new campaign.

servers in the statement issued Friday by Premier Baron Tanaka.

Despite earlier reports that the Japanese cabinet change would leave that country's attitude toward the present Chinese situation virtually the same as it was before. Those who have watched the situation feel that Japan's future attitude will be somewhat different.

They see in the Tanaka statement indication of first, an intention to intervene in China if necessary to prevent bolshevization of that country; secondly, a warning to Russia that she must refrain from interfering with Japan's policy in Manchuria; and finally, a change of mind regarding the best means of attaining China's "legitimate" aspirations.

It is generally understood here that a portion of the delay in the powers' protest regarding the Nanjing riots was due to Japan's reluctance to join in strong representations. This was said to have been due to the wide understanding by Japanese that her proximity to China meant that her trade in China would increase as that of other nations dwindled.

There is considerable speculation as to whether the new Tanaka policy is indicative of a move by Great Britain and Japan to back General Chiang-shih as a nationalist, though an anti-bolshevik dictator in China.

Flood Threatens Vicksburg Safety

Vicksburg, Miss., April 22.—(AP)—Hundreds of workmen of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad and of the city of Vicksburg, led by Floy R. Mays, general superintendent of the Y. & M. V. road; J. C. Stamma, superintendent of Vicksburg division, and Mayor W. J. Hossley, tonight are battling to stop a blowout which occurred this afternoon in the Alabama and Vicksburg arch in the levee in the southern part of the city.

This arch is located between the incline and the Y. & M. V. railroad tracks. It was stated by officials of the road and Mayor Hossley that should the attempt fail to check this encroachment the entire southern part of the city will be flooded and possibly the water would come up Levee street into the main part of the wholesale district.

THE MASSACRE IN MEXICO.

Some idea of the barbarous brutality—exceeding that of the inquisition—indulged in by Mexican revolutionary bandits may be gained from the news dispatches telling of the horrors of the hold-up Thursday of the train from Guadalajara to Mexico City.

While perhaps a more revolting tragedy has never been enacted, even in the old days of Villa's rebel reign through a large part of northern Mexico, and the ruthless massacre of federal soldiers and sympathizers that occurred almost daily during those trying years, it is also true that in the incipency of any organized revolution in Mexico—as in most of the hot-headed Latin republics—the most dastardly and unthinkable brutalities are resorted to.

The cutting of railroad tracks, burning of trestles, wrecking of human-laden trains, ambushing of innocent people, outraging and murdering of women and children—these are common practices in the days of real revolution in Mexico.

Conscience is thrown to the winds, human hearts are frozen, human acts of iniquity are frequently beyond the pale of description. The tragedy that occurred on Thursday could not have been climaxed in its brutal horrors. It forecasts what has long been foreseen—that Mexico, under the present political regime, is on the precipice of one of the most horrible revolutions in its history unless the strong arm of compromise and reason and of national honor shall take a firm hold upon the reins, and bring governmental order out of chaos.

Mexico is honeycombed with radicalism. The great majority of the masses, or peons, are poor, ignorant, impressionable, excitable, and easy to incite to lawlessness. They are easy prey for radical propagandists. They are easy prey for religious fanatics. It is not difficult, under expert revolutionary guidance, to incite them into riot or revolution. It is not difficult, under the present unrest in Mexico, and widespread distrust in the government, to understand the easiness of igniting revolution with anti-government sparks.

While the religious intolerance sentiment, inspired and promoted by the Calles administration, is necessarily the most tense domestic situation in Mexico it is inconceivable that the train massacre of the week could have been directed, suggested or even inspired by the episcopate. The charges to that extent in the alleged statement of the president of Mexico ought to be sifted to the bottom, and the truth should be proclaimed to the world in the interest of justice.

Mexico needs again a Mussolini—a strong government head of the older Diaz type.

Call it a democracy or what not, until her people are brought rigidly under the whip of the law, her great agricultural and industrial opportunities developed, her international relations placed upon the scales of justice, her church and state separated without religious bigotry in the interest of any denomination or group, but with freedom and fairness to all—until just laws shall rule supreme, and harmony unite her people, however rigid the discipline—until that good day that great empire, one of the richest on the western hemisphere, will be torn with strife, distrust, lawlessness, massacre, with human life cheapening as the days pass.

General Obregon is such a man. Under his administration—a clean-cut democracy—Mexico was peaceful at home and in good standing abroad. He is needed again.

Our southern neighbor deserves a stabilized government. She deserves and we deserve to be on the most friendly social, commercial and diplomatic relations with her.

What a calamity it is that such a government is not now in power in that unhappy land!

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.
In the course of his address before one of the largest luncheon audiences of business men ever assembled in Atlanta, Major General W. L. Sibert, internationally famous engineer and builder, declared that this city's strategic geographical position as relating to several South Atlantic and Gulf ports—being only an over-night distance from at least six such deep-water shipping points—gave her a position occupied by no other great city in the south, and would make her a natural leader in the export and import trade of the south, and in time one of the great foreign trade centers of America.

The Constitution has repeatedly referred to this fact—the same strategic geographical position that is making Atlanta the outstanding distributing point in the south's domestic trade—and when General Sibert's statement is analyzed it is not difficult to account for the enormous growth in our foreign commerce, or the splendid outlook for the future.

Great state-owned terminals at New Orleans, already in operation to expedite Atlanta trade to the West Indies, South and Central America, will shortly be accentuated to Atlanta's interest by the opening of the great state-owned terminals at Mobile, which are now being built by General Sibert.

Swinging around to the South Atlantic coast, either port of which is approximately 1,000 miles nearer Liverpool than either New Orleans or Mobile, Georgia has two excellent operating ports in Savannah and Brunswick. Then there are, at an over-night run, the ports of Jacksonville to the south and Charleston and Wilmington to the north.

It is not difficult to understand, therefore, what General Sibert meant in saying Atlanta would become in time one of the outstanding foreign trade markets in America.

As to a great centralized terminal on the Georgia coast—so earnestly advocated by General Sibert—into which every railroad and every ship could have access on equal terms and conditions, there can be no argument as to the impelling advantage of such an enterprise.

This state, in order to reach the peak of satisfaction in balanced production on large commercial scales, must eventually have such deep-water terminals, with ample warehouse and cold storage facilities, loading and unloading devices, covering every commodity that can move to and from such a port. Such terminals would help also to serve fully one-third of the entire United States.

These are matters to think about seriously. No state can stand still. It must progress or go backward.

COWLES CALLED AGAIN.

The Atlanta Writers' club, one of the strong and virile cultural organizations of the city, has chosen wisely in its recall of Dudley Cowles to the presidency.

Four or five years ago when the Writers' club had grown inactive it was Mr. Cowles who injected new life into it, and under his executive direction it not only thrived but became a powerful factor in the club life of the city. Its membership, among both professional and amateur writers, was marvelously increased, and its fine work along literary lines became a feature among the educational and cultural activities of Atlanta citizens. It developed a powerful, practical usefulness.

Mr. Cowles, after an absence of several terms, has consented to serve again, and the club may be expected to lead in the literary functions of the city during the ensuing year.

Dudley Cowles, who is a director of and southern manager of the D. C. Heath Publishing company, is one of Atlanta's most prominent, useful and popular citizens.

Georgia—a state of mud in wet weather and dust in dry weather, surrounded by North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida which build roads by bonding so that those of today can travel in comfort, with safety and economically.

Now, that the agricultural department has told Mr. Edison that the making of fertilizer from water hyacinths is impractical, hope the gentleman will devote some of his talents to inventing a noiseless lawn-mower.

Jacksonville's mayor saw a placard on a hot-dog stand proclaiming a sandwich known as "The Alsop." Mayor Alsop's curiosity was excited and he made a purchase. The filler was tongue.

The Florida legislature has already developed the evolution bug. Some think they are to debate on a monkey wrench.

Earl Carroll's troubles all gate front tabs and tubs.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

New York, April 22.—There has been formed in New York what is known as the Mid-Manhattan survey, sponsored by the 42d Street Property Owners' and Merchants' association, to study the crowded condition of the midtown sidewalks in an effort to learn whether the crowds are an asset to the merchants doing business along that street.

If it is ascertained that the crowds of passersby are no "asset," they'll probably have an ordinance passed making it a misdemeanor for anyone to attempt to leave 42d street who cannot establish to the satisfaction of the police that he is a bona fide shopper.

With the taxicabs owning the roadways and the merchants attempting supervision of the crowds on the sidewalks, New York is becoming to the pedestrian, a sort of Utopia, with reverse English.

Former Police Commissioner McLaughlin quit his job to assume an executive position with Clarence Mackay—Irving Berlin's father-in-law, who is president of the Postal Telegraph company.

"I have my family to look after," said Mr. McLaughlin, whose salary as commissioner was only $10,000 a year.

Fair enough. And when he's "looked after" his family, he'll find a rainy day he might find it in his heart to do something for the widow of the first man in the street who was killed by a policeman.

Where do the vaudeville troupes get the derby hats that they so wantonly smash at each other? The answer to this question which has been annoying savants for more than a decade, has been found—in the city of the Salvation Army.

The average trouper on the two-day plays 14 shows each week. The average trouper on the two-day plays 14 shows each week. The average trouper on the two-day plays 14 shows each week.

The business of theatrical outfitting is a recent sideline of the Salvation Army. There was an overflow of derby hats, or "biffers" as Al Smith calls them, sent to the Industrial Home, wrote what is the difficulty of disposing of them in Salvation Army stores due to the softer and more flexible variety of head gear.

This also is the first time the first performer in search of hats to break from that time on there has been no excess of derby hats in the city of the Salvation Army.

There are always lat-tap-smash troupes eager to take up the unwanted derbies at 10 cents a hat. (Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution.)

Sermons to Live By

BY ELAM FRANKLIN DELINSEY.

Text: "To do good, and to communicate, forget not." Heb. 13:16.
It is a singular coincidence that the Boy Scouts of today have a slogan about doing a good deed each day and that one of our earliest American writers, Cotton Mathew, wrote what is perhaps his most important book under the important title "Essays (trials, efforts) To Do Good."

This goes to show that in all ages man has had an instinctive feeling that it is a goodly trait in his character. Despite the brutality of the social life of every age, there has been found a great wealth of human kindness, household loves and tenderness, social amities and love, benevolence that has attained the height of the heroic.

Opportunities for little kindnesses which sweeten and brighten our life lie in our pathway every day that we live, while only rarely are we afforded an opportunity to give our life for our country.

"The primal duties shine aloft in stars." And charities that sooth, and heal, and bless. Are scattered at the feet of men like flowers.

But strength and beauty of character are embodied in one quality—the primal duties are faithfully observed and the every-day charities are not neglected.

So challenging are the primal duties such as speaking the truth, obedience to parents, reverence for God, and love of country that we rarely overlook them without looking back upon them with regret.

On the contrary, "to do good" in the lowly levels of every-day life is so modest a task that even scripture and the most sacred of laws are not secret of the mysterious element called charm of personality is that the little kindnesses that count for so much in the lives of men are unfailingly included in the day's program. Such winsomeness must have been possessed by the New England wife who epithet is, "She Made Home Pleasant."

Minor Musings

The wig is being revived in London. All wig we ever have seen appeared to need it.

Double chin, like other troubles, never come singly.

Then there is the book lover who loves his friends but who will let him never returns them.

A loan shark's motto: It's never too late to lend.

Modern young people are so honest they don't pretend to be shocked about something when they are pleased.

When both sides declare they have won a victory why do both keep on being mad about it?

One of the missions of the Chinese seems to be to get rid of missions.

Straight-backed chairs at bridge tables are the cause of a good deal of social unrest.

The president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad says every young man should be one thing thoroughly. Many a young man, of course, knows how to "do" his father thoroughly.

It's no disgrace to be rich unless you are running for the senate.

The main trouble with these questionable plays is that they are not.

The Program of 1927.

The program reported for 1927 includes the following:

400 miles of sand-gravel roads; 30 miles of gravel roads; 40 miles of bituminous macadam roads; 28 miles of bituminous concrete roads; 12 miles of concrete roads; making a total of 698 miles of all types.

This compares with 414.01 miles of all kinds completed in 1926, 424.01 miles of all kinds in 1925, and 328.17 miles of all kinds in 1924.

The gasoline tax brought $5,633,140, of which $2,420,974 went to state roads, $1,613,983 to local roads, and $1,613,983 went to administration.

In number of automobiles and trucks Georgia is in the list of states. She is 24th in the list of states.

In amount of revenue from motor vehicles and ranked the same in 1926. She ranked 24th in 1925, and 24th in 1924.

In combined receipts from licenses and gas she ranked 7th, with $22,560,000.

Figures like these should prove that Georgia could, if she were wise and willing, speedily build a great and adequate hard road system by bonds without politics or burden.

But she isn't wise and she won't!

A Highly Defeatist Policy.

The highway policy that is being pursued in Georgia is a defeatist policy. It is a policy of "out of the mud" and being able to tread the state on well built, safe, and economically sustained hard roads, they should wake up to the barefaced fact that the plans of the state highway commission will never give them what they want.

On the road map of the state what the commission has accomplished looks like a series of highly defeatist policy. The stringing of graded and paved roads are crying protests against the use of public road money for political purposes.

Of course, the people have the right to decide what they will have, and if they have elected a legislature that will go round looking important, and economically sustained hard roads, they should wake up to the barefaced fact that the plans of the state highway commission will never give them what they want.

Seventh Annual Rose Show Draws Throng to Thomasville

By ALTON REDFERN.
Special Correspondent.
Thomasville, Ga., April 22.—With roses of all colors and shapes, one of nature's many contributions to the realm of the beautiful, as a background, Thomasville's seventh annual Rose show was staged here Friday before a crowd of people who came from all parts of the state to witness this glorious spectacle. A show of indescribable beauty.

Conceived Seven Years Ago.
The Rose show idea was conceived seven years ago by members of the Thomasville Garden club who promptly, under the auspices of the club, began the show, which was a small thing in its infancy, but which has grown so rapidly that at present the festival is attracting considerable attention in three states, Georgia, Florida and Alabama. "The purpose of the show," said Mrs. B. F. Herring, president of the Garden club, "is to promote the growth of roses, especially by the amateur growers. This will be a great asset to our city because it is our desire to make Thomasville beautiful, which can only be accomplished through the show idea, we believe."

Crowds began to pour into the city early in the morning, despite threatening weather. The portentous clouds which hung low over the city in the early morning soon faded away, however, and by 1 o'clock, the starting time of the show, thousands of visitors were in the city. Many of the visitors came via automobiles from the neighboring towns, while many, from longer distances, came on trains.

Something close to 200 prizes were given away at the festival. The flowers were classified, comprising over 60 different classes. The most important classification, or rather the highest, was that of the individual rose. The highest of honors conferred were those to the growers of the most perfect rose. Five prizes were awarded to growers of the best rose. The first best were given by the following women, all of them from Thomasville: First, Mrs. W. C. Massey; second, Mrs. Stern Title; third, Miss Sara Marders; fourth, Mrs. W. E. Stephens, and fifth, Mrs. H. H. Merry.

Other exhibits and displays were also of importance and were chiefly what would be called "side issues" being called this because the winners were determined because of artistry of design, and not because of having grown the prettiest flower.

Elaborately Arranged.
The show was held in the Thomasville tobacco warehouse. The displays and exhibits were elaborately arranged, the result of several days' effort.

Compulsory Rest Day Is Sought For All Workers

Savannah, Ga., April 22.—(P)—At the third day's session here today of the Georgia State Federation of Labor a resolution was adopted favoring "the enactment of such legislation as will make it compulsory for each and every worker to have one day out of seven; and to make illegal for each employer to work on his designated day of rest."

J. N. Davis, of Washington, vice president of the National Boilermakers' union, was the principal speaker. Tomorrow's meeting will bring the convention to a close. At that time the election of officers will be held. L. E. Woodward, of Savannah, first vice president, is being prominently mentioned as a candidate for president.

$125,000 REALTY SALE ANNOUNCED FOR NORTH SIDE

Sale of the northwest corner of Cain and Williams streets by Mrs. Mittie M. and Stillwell Robinson to R. C. Darby for a consideration of $125,000 was announced Friday by the Adams-Cates company, agents for the transaction.

The deal involved a $75,000 parcel at the juncture of Whitehall street and the Central of Georgia railroad, given as part consideration by Mr. Darby, making the aggregate of the property transferred through the Adams-Cates company $200,000.

The vacant property, measuring 202 feet on Cain street and 20 feet on Williams street, represents one of the largest tracts of land changing hands in that fast growing commercial section for many months. The Whitehall property measures 140 feet along that street and 220 feet along the railway right of way. The section is rapidly becoming Atlanta's industrial center.

John C. Baldwin, Jr., of the Adams-Cates office, negotiated the deal.

BAN ON GALLERIES ON GOLF COURSES OPERATED BY CITY
Galleries on municipally-owned golf courses were officially banned Friday by the city. The ban, which was issued by the city manager, prohibits the operation of galleries on the links unless a tournament is in progress.

At the same time, Mr. Wallis issued instructions that tennis shoes must be worn on tennis courts by players. "Golfers are being badly damaged and are being hindered in their play by the use of tennis shoes," he said. "Further, hard leather shoes, with high heels or any kind of heel for that matter, tear tennis courts up and prevent keepers from maintaining them. They will not be permitted in the future."

HELD FOR U. S. JURY ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Bertha Perkins, negro, who lives in an alley between Lucy and Fitzgerald streets, was held Friday by United States Commissioner James L. Brown for the federal grand jury on prohibition charges, under $300 bond.

The Perkins woman was arrested by the police wrecking crew, composed of Officers H. C. Newton, C. C. Harper, W. C. Morris and W. J. Stephens, in alleged possession of five gallons and three quarts of whisky.

COMMISSION FAVORS PARDON FOR STEWART

Recommendations that a pardon be granted Marion M. Stewart, convicted in Fulton county on a charge of forgery and sentenced to serve 32 months in the state prison, were made Friday by the state prison commission at an executive session held at the capitol. Pardons were recommended for John Eason, convicted in Gwinnett county on a charge of making whisky.

The commission also prepared a notice to counties which have condemned prisoners to be executed, that the electrocution fee of $75 must be paid in advance by these counties. There are ten men in the state prison awaiting electrocution as soon as they are sentenced by their trial judges following the action of the supreme court recently in upholding the constitutionality of the act providing for electrocution of prisoners instead of hanging them.

REV. JORDAN SANE, WILL FACE TRIAL

Declared sane by a jury in Judge John D. Humphries' division of Fulton superior court following hearing Friday on a special plea of insanity, "The Rev." Richard Jordan who is under joint indictment with Miss Imo G. Hughes for alleged misappropriation of more than $2,000, will be placed on trial May 5 on the criminal charge.

The jury returned a verdict "finding against the special plea" after little more than one hour's deliberation. The principal witness introduced by the defense during the day's session was Mrs. Jordan, who testified that she and the defendant had been married for 35 years and that for the past 20 years Jordan had "acted peculiar." He refused to work, she said, and, therefore, she had to support herself.

Specialists testified Thursday at the opening of the hearing, that Jordan was suffering from senile dementia brought about by old age. He is 65 years old.

The special plea was entered by Jordan's attorneys after Miss Hughes had entered a plea of guilty to the joint indictment. Sentence was deferred by Judge Humphries pending the outcome of Jordan's case at the request of Jordan's attorneys.

Miss Hughes admitted the theft of the money, from Dr. A. H. Bunce and J. W. Landman, employers, and declared that she had been swayed by a "sinister religious influence" which "The Rev." Jordan held over her.

GULF COAST BOOSTER SPENDS DAY IN CITY
Anthony V. Ragusini, secretary of the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce, is in Atlanta today conferring with J. P. Billups, general passenger agent of the Atlanta & West Point railroad, regarding summer excursion travel to Biloxi and other Mississippi Gulf Coast points for the approaching season.

The Atlanta & West Point railroad, in conjunction with the Louisville & Nashville railroad, operated a series of cheap excursions to Biloxi and Mississippi coast resorts last summer, which proved very popular for Atlanta vacationists. The same rates will apply again this season.

Atlanta citizens realizing that Biloxi can be reached overnight by fast train service, said Mr. Ragusini, and Biloxi and the Mississippi coast is now before the eyes of America as a rapidly growing resort section. More attractions are being provided and the summer business is expected to draw more people from Atlanta than heretofore.

Two outstanding events of the summer season will occur early in July. On July 4, the annual Biloxi Bathing Review will be staged as part of the famous Elk-Pat celebration. July 6 and 7, the annual regatta of the Biloxi Yacht and Boat Club will be held. This is a big event for summer visitors and will be featured by the annual Gulf Fishermen's schooner championship, in which beautiful sailing craft as well as power boats will take part.

Military Training Value Emphasized By Col. Kimbrough

The development of citizen soldiers, with special reference to the national guard and citizens' training camps, formed the general subject of an address Friday at noon to students of the Georgia Military Institute by Colonel J. M. Kimbrough, United States army.

The importance of guardsmen and citizen soldiers as a unit of the national defense was gone into by Colonel Kimbrough, particular stress being laid upon the value of military training and its discipline, and he urged G. M. I. students to take the work seriously and prepare thoroughly.

Colonel Kimbrough, a native Georgian, is senior instructor assigned to the Georgia National Guard, and has seen long service. Only recently he was promoted to be a colonel. He has offices in the office of Adjutant General Charles H. Cox at the state capitol.

MAJOR CHASE RETURNS TO GEORGIA TECH

Major Theo M. Chase, connected with the coast artillery branch of the military service at Georgia Tech, will remain at that institution for another year, it was announced today. It is the usual custom of the war department to allow an officer to remain on detached service for a period of four years, after which he must return to duty with troops for at least one year. Exceptions are made on special occasion when an officer has made a record for exceptionally good work, it was stated, and a request was made for Major Chase's return by Tech authorities.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

The pointer for today is: No matter how urgent the denial may be, it rarely should be made without one quick trick. Below are the four North hands gives a warning. South has bid one Heart. West passed; what should North do?

No. 17
♠ 10-6-4-3
♥ J-9
♦ 8-5-3
♣ J-8-7

No. 18

♣ J-8-7

No. 19
♠ J-7-3

♣ K-10-8-5

No. 20
♠ A-J-4
♥ J-9
♦ K-10-4-3
♣ J-8-7

My answer slip reads: No. 17 North should pass. No. 18 North should bid one Spade. No. 19 North should bid one No Trump. No. 20 North should bid one No Trump.

The reason in support of these declarations are:

No. 17. North is anxious to deny Hearts, but without a quick trick should not do so, although the denial can be made without increasing the contract. A denial would guarantee at least one quick trick, probably with additional strength, and might induce South to make a bid which would result disastrously.

No. 18. While the Spade suit is exactly the same as in No. 17, the Ace of Diamonds is a quick trick and the Queen of Diamonds has an even chance of taking another. The trick which justifies the denial does not have to be in the suit in which the denial is made.

No. 19. While the hand is far from strong, it is almost sure to work better at No Trump than at Hearts; what is all that a No Trump denial shows. No. 20. The Ace-Jack is one suit and the King-Ten in another justifies the No Trump denial even with weakness in the third suit.

Next Monday another series of bidding hands will be inaugurated. Prepare now to have a contest with one or more of your friends to see who can prepare the most answers that agree with mine. There will be 20 questions. Fill in the slips every day and then note my bids on the succeeding days.

Invest $1.25 Now To Guard Future of Those You Love

"Manlaughter Laid to Driver in Crash."
That was a recent headline appearing in Atlanta papers, and it illustrates a point you've seen stressed in this paper many times.

Don't depend on court proceedings to protect your wife and children. After a killing or maiming the only thing that can help them is money—help when expenses are heaviest and they need aid most.

What if you do it to invest $1.25 in insurance for their protection now. The Constitution offers you for this insignificant sum the famous $7,500 travel accident policy issued by the North American Accident Insurance company of Chicago. The reliability of this concern is proved by the fact that it has paid more than $20,000 in cash has been paid on claims of Constitution policy holders.

Any Constitution reader between 15 and 70 years of age may secure this policy for only $1.25 per year, a fraction of a penny a day. In return, the policy provides, in case of death resulting from certain specified accidents, payments ranging downward from $7,500, with heavy sums for permanent disability resulting from the accidents set forth.

You may be killed or maimed tomorrow. A train wreck, a crash of cars, the speeding wheels of recklessly-driven automobiles, burning buildings—all menace you every moment of your life.

Don't take chances. Watch for advertisements appearing regularly in this paper which describe the offer in detail, then act.

This $7,500 travel, $2,000 auto and $1,000 life insurance policy is issued only to subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 70 at $1.25 per policy per year.

One who is now taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution, or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, through an out-of-town carrier, or dealer, paying for the paper weekly, monthly or otherwise, is a subscriber, and is eligible.

Those taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution by mail, either through a postoffice or rural route delivery, and all others subscribing through the twin-word building contract for one year are eligible by paying $1.25 per year per policy above the subscription price.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation. If beneficiary is desired, full Christian name must be given and the relation of the same to the insured.

NEW TRIAL MOTIONS IN U. S. COURT TODAY

Two motions for new trials will be heard today in United States district court by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley. One is that of four co-defendants of the "Bankers' Trust" company, Paul J. Baker, J. D. Russell, L. R. Adams and J. A. Sasser, who were convicted on mail fraud charges.

The other is the appeal of J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, from a decision in favor of the Atlantic Steel company in a suit for taxes.

Sasser, Adams and Baker were sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and to pay fines of $1,000 each, while Russell was sentenced to two years and $1,000 fine. The appeal for a new trial is for general grounds.

Judge Sibley will hold district court Monday in Gainesville, and probably will adjourn after one day's session until after the advent of the new fiscal year on July 1, because of a lack of funds arising out of the failure of congress to pass the deficiency bill.

METHODIST TRAINING SCHOOL OPENS MAY 1

Announcement of the seventh annual session of the Atlanta Methodist Standard Training school was made Friday by leaders of the general conference Sunday school boards of the North Georgia conference, under whose auspices the schools are conducted.

Classes will begin May 1 and continue through May 6, at Grace Methodist church. The most imposing faculty ever assembled for the work has been listed, and predictions of the most successful session in the history of such schools in this section of the country were freely made.

Sunday afternoon sessions will begin promptly at 3 o'clock and classes during work days at 8 o'clock. Supper will be served at that hour and at 6:30 work will be begun.

EVERGLADES BILL PASSES IN FLORIDA

Tallahassee, April 22.—(P)—A stroke of the gubernatorial pen tonight remained the only state act to be completed before the inauguration of the officials of the "Bankers' Trust" company, Paul J. Baker, J. D. Russell, L. R. Adams and J. A. Sasser, who were convicted on mail fraud charges.

The last vestige of opposition was officially drowned today when the senate voted, 35 to 1, to approve Governor Martin's plan for financing the drainage of south Florida's vast Everglades swamp and the reclamation of 4,200,000 acres of muck land.

The companion measure went to the committee on enrolled bills and were expected to reach the governor tomorrow morning.

SENATOR GEORGE GUEST OF HONOR AT LEGION AFFAIR

United States Senator Walter F. George will be guest of honor tonight at an American Legion banquet in Macon, which will be attended by a state-wide assemblage of legion post commanders, adjutants and members of the departmental executive committee, according to announcement Friday by Emory Bass, Georgia commander.

Following the dinner the Macon Volunteers will entertain visiting legionnaires at a dance. Sunday will be occupied with business sessions, at which a number of important subjects are to come before state officials of the organization. A large delegation from Atlanta will attend the Macon meeting, according to Asa Warren Candler, commander of the Atlanta post.

COLONIAL DAMES PLAN TO PURCHASE HOME IN SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., April 22.—(P)—Members of the Georgia Society of Colonial Dames, at their annual session today, pledged themselves to raise $50,000 for the purchase of a permanent headquarters in Savannah, which will be the year when the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth will be celebrated.

More than $3,000 was raised in pledges at today's meeting.

Alabama Beats Tech, 8-5; Petrels Defeated by Mercer

Crimsons Pound Two Tech Pitchers To Win

Jackets Stage Vain Rally in Ninth Inning—Last Game Played Today.

BY ARNOLD FINNEFROCK.

USCALOOSA, ALA., April 22.—(Special.)—Back on their own home lot after dropping two times to Georgia Tech in Atlanta, the Alabama Crimsonsoes pounded two Yellow Jacket hurlers for an 8 to 5 victory to cap the third game of the current series, despite blistering winds that swept in chilling blasts across Denny field. A capacity crowd shouted vociferous approval as the Crimsonsoes downed their ancient enemies from Georgia's capital city.

The Jackets hopped off to a three-run lead at the outset. Smith walked, Moreland sacrificed him to second, where he tallied when Parham singled through short. Crowley went but Angley walked, setting the stage for McCash's rousing trip to right.

Alabama found Conn for one run in the opening frame with a walk, an error and hit.

The Wademen sent Conn to the showers in the fifth. Hayes lived at first on Crowley's boot. Pepper singled into center, and Typton walked to fill the sacks. Kirkland singled, scoring Hayes and Pepper. Exit Mr. Conn. Moore greeted Carney with a screaming triple to deep center, scoring Typton and Kirkland. Carney soon warmed to his task and averted further run getting in that canto.

Feeling that their two-run lead was insecure, the locals tallied three more in the eighth on three hits, a walk and an unsuccessful fielder's choice.

It was well that they did so, for those fighting Yellow Jackets who had been handed nothing but goose eggs ever since the first inning by the masterful hurling of Syd Cohen, who was making his initial start of the season, began making for the exits. With two away Schulman, pinch-hitting for Carney, took one of Cohen's fork-handed curves on his leg. Smith sent him in on a three-way vallop to left, he himself checking in a moment later on Moreland's hit through short.

Parham came through with his third hit, but Crowley ended the game by hitting one to left.

Chapman led through the first seven holes, but on the eighth the Princeton sophomore evened the match and went ahead on the ninth, retaining his lead throughout the remainder of the play.

Stevens left immediately for Philadelphia where he will join the Princeton golf team in its match against the Merion Cricket club tomorrow.

Ellsworth Gilles, Jr., of Princeton university, defeated T. H. Bloch, Wheeling, 2 and 1 in the first consolation finals.

TECH MEETS N. C. U. CINDER CREW TODAY

North Carolina's track squad arrived Friday afternoon and went through a light workout on Grant field in preparation for the dual encounter with Coach Feltzer's crew today.

Coach Feltzer brings a squad of 15 men with him and expects to return home with Tech's scull team safely on his belt. Both Tech and North Carolina have strong teams and the meet should be a nip and tuck affair all the way through from the 100-yard dash to the relay, which will wind up the events for the day.

Glen Elliott, rated as the second best miler in the country, and the best in the south, will be the main event in the mile and half-mile events. Williams, star weight man, is reported to be in the best of shape. Hood, of Tech, is also a good weight man, and when these two tie up in the weight events there is sure to be a struggle for first place.

Tech's high jumper, is sure of first in his event, while Hamm should come through with first in the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet or more. Hamm will also push North Carolina's sprint artist to break the tape in less than 10 seconds in order to beat him in the century. Stewart, a good pole vaulter, and will be watching as he is getting more height as the season gets on.

Beginning at 1:30 the fifth district meet will take place and hold sway until the Tech-Tech meet is scheduled to start. Then the district events will be sandwiched in between the events of the college meet. Several schools are entered in the annual affair held by the fifth district.

Tech High is the favorite, but will be the pushing team from the Boys' High school, University School for Boys, Commercial High, Fulton High, Decatur High, Douglasville High and East Point will enter teams.

Several records are expected to fall during the afternoon of trials.

At 4 o'clock the Georgia freshman meet will take place with teams from the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, and the Georgia Institute of Technology.

The Indians will start from the Memorial stadium at Lawrence, 50.6 miles away, about 2 p. m. and finish their race with a turn around the quarter-mile stadium track.

The Tarahumaras, Jose Torres, Manuel Salido and Tomas Zafiro, were brought over the route today by motor car. They were pleased with the steep hills they will encounter, smiling broadly at the prospect of rest along the way. Going up hills is rest for the mountain runners, an interpreter explained. Learning forward upgrade, afford the Indians a relief from the steady grind on the level, he said.

While the men are running from Kansas City, two girls, Juanita and Lolita Cuzarero, sisters, will start from Topeka, Kan., at 9:30 a. m. to run 25 miles to Lawrence, expecting to finish about the same time as the men.

Along the route the Tarahumaras will receive "rub" downings. Unlike American athletes, whose legs are rubbed upward to increase circulation, the Indians' legs will be rubbed downward to "rub the devil out of their legs into the ground."

Both battlers affixed their signatures to contracts today in the office of the state athletic commission.

Torris has been guaranteed $32,000. Goldstein agreed to $25,000 for his end. Both bats hail from the east side and they firmly believe that charity should begin at home.

Articles of agreement call for the east side New York rivals to make 138 pounds by 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the fight. Within the next 10 days they must each post $5,000 as a guarantee they will appear fit.

Black Crackers Play A. U. Today

The Black Crackers, Atlanta's entry in the colored Southern baseball league, will play the Atlanta university team this afternoon on the Atlanta university campus in an exhibition game.

The Black Crackers have played four exhibition games thus far and won three of them. This year's aggregation is one of the best that has been assembled in the past few years. The regular league schedule will get under way on Monday, May 3.

Today's game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Battling Barnett Wins

Tampa, Fla., April 22.—(P)—S. Arturo Shekels, Belgian welter, and Bernadette Billy Wells, of England, fought ten rounds to a draw in the main bout of the week-end card at the local artillery field tonight. The bout was carded as the final in an elimination contest for the Dixie title, the winner to be awarded a belt donated by the artillerymen. Shekels showed better advantage than in his previous bout with the Briton, but was forced to the limit.

Battling Barnett, Atlanta, kayaked Johnnie Erm, of Pittsburgh, in the third round of an eight-round preliminary.

Charleston, West Va., April 22.—(P)—A bill which would have permitted the staging of boxing bouts in West Virginia under the auspices of military organizations, was killed in the house today, 50 to 28, and a move to reconsider failed by a 33 to 20 vote. The measure sponsored by members of the American Legion, provided for the staging of no-decision contests.

Junior Loop Offers Walker Presidency

Mayor of New York Has Not Been Formally Approached. Ban Johnson Surprised at News.

BY MARSHALL HUNT.

New York, April 22.—Mayor James J. Walker has been approached with an offer of the presidency of the American League of Professional Baseball Clubs, with a salary of $100,000 a year, according to an apparently authentic report in baseball and political circles here today. The offer has not yet been formally presented, however, and the mayor would make no comment.

Persons in close touch with him said the formal proposition would be made to him within a few days. These same informants declared he would not accept it at once, but would agree to take it under consideration and probably would accept it when his term of office expires, January 1, 1930, if not before.

The salary figure is two and a half times that received by Byron Bancroft Johnson, of Chicago, whom Walker, long prominent in sporting circles and father of the state law which restored boxing in New York some years ago, would be succeeding.

The whole story goes back to last December when Johnson and Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis had a falling out over baseball political issues. It was reported that Johnson would resign from baseball, but he became ill and temporarily retired from baseball. It was understood at that time he would remain out of baseball until he was well enough to resume his duties.

Johnson's term does not expire until 1929. His salary was increased from $30,000 to $50,000 in 1926, and a contract made in 1920 was extended five years in 1921.

Although Mayor Walker is represented as feeling he would like to head one of the big leagues, he is not yet tired of being mayor and under no condition, it is said, would he resign. While the mayor legally could continue in office while serving as president of the league, it is likewise authoritative stated he would not do so. Even if he should desire to hold both jobs, it is taken for granted Tammany Hall would never consent because of the probable criticism of such a course. From an organization point of view, the mayor's resignation to take the job would be unthinkable and he could do so only if he were willing to quit politics for good.

Walker's manager, W. T. Wrightston, chairman of the league's boxing committee, will attempt to induce Harry Williams to back into the ring to meet Stribling.

However, John K. Tener held the post of president of the National Amateur Athletic Union, of Philadelphia, from 1911 to 1915, and Judge Landis continued on the federal bench for a time after accepting the high commissionership of organized baseball.

BY JACK FARRELL.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, April 22.—William Lawrence Stribling, who fights Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, for the heavyweight title, is expected to fight on May 3, will be a busy boxer if he comes out on top in that match.

Stribling's manager, W. T. Wrightston, let it be known today that the New York State Amateur Athletic Union will hold a boxing carnival at the Polo Grounds on June 29 and that efforts will be made to get the winner of the Sharkey-Maloney tilt to fight the Georgian in the star bout.

Failing in this, W. T. Wrightston, chairman of the league's boxing committee, will attempt to induce Harry Williams to back into the ring to meet Stribling.

A. A. U. 1927 Meet To Be Held in N. Y.

BY AL COPLAND.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, April 22.—New York will supplant New Orleans in the Amateur Athletic Union national track and field championships rejected by the southern city because of the insistence of the governing sports body that no distinction be made against the competition of negro athletes.

Arrangements are being made already for the reception of the athletes of the nation at Yankee Stadium, under the auspices of the local association of the Amateur Athletic Union, whose membership includes organizations of nearly all races and creeds.

Morris Brown Wins

Tallahassee, Ala., April 22.—(Special.)—Morris Brown, made it straight on the night, defeating Talladega, 5 to 2, in a pitchers' battle here today. Spruill pitched seven and one-third innings, Bradley and Anderson relieving him. Gillard pitched superb ball for Talladega, allowing only five runs. The Whitebriars scored three runs in the first when Sanders tripled and scored on Williams' single.

Ritola Sets New 5,000-Yard Mark

New York, April 22.—(P)—Willie Ritola, Finnish-American, A. C. distance star, tonight clipped nine and one-fifth seconds from his own 5,000-yard record by running the distance in 13:56 1-5 set here in 1925. The Finnish speedster set the 5,000-yard record of 13:39, which he shattered tonight, in St. Paul two years ago.

Ritola ran the three miles two-fifths of a second faster than the international federation record of Pao Nervi, made in Sweden in 1922, but failed to touch his own indoor record of 13:56 1-5 set here in 1925.

Frank Titterton, Milrose, A. A., with a handicap of 75 yards, was second.

Abandoned Again

El Paso, Texas, April 22.—(P)—Doc Graham, who left Mobile, Ala., with the intention of driving a golf ball to California, has again forsaken his venture. Graham arrived in El Paso this morning, having temporarily dropped his marathon golf attempt at Ozone, Texas.

Shortage of funds was responsible for the change in his plans, but said Graham had made 35,948 shots and used 140 golf balls at the time he quit.

Postponed

The Boys' High-G. M. A. game, scheduled for the prep baseball league Friday, was postponed until a later date. Coaches of the two teams decided that it was too cold for a baseball game and repaired to the warmth of the respective clubhouses.

Boys' High was among those playing Thursday afternoon among the prepsters and defeated the Marist squad by the score of 15 to 2. All the members of the Purple squad got to play in the game and improve their batting averages, a total of 16 hits being chalked up for the winners. Reagan, with a home run, and Towell, with four out of five, featured the hitting attack.

FT. M'PHERSON PLAYS BENNING HERE TODAY

Lieutenant Potter will bring his situation army school team here today to oppose the doughboys of the Twenty-second infantry in a two-game series which extends to Sunday. On the face of things, it looks like two games more in the win column of the Doughboys, but the Twenty-second has a strong hurler in Campbell, who ought to hold the "Columbus" leads in one of the games. Manager Banks is rather short on pitchers at the present time, with Miller, a left-hander, out with a bad arm, and Colson unavailable owing to target practice. If Colson should return by Saturday, the Twenty-second stock should go up a few points. The Doughboys played errorless ball against Oglethorpe on Tuesday, and when they hit him like the Petrels were hitting them on that day this reflects no end of credit on the infield. The hitting should improve.

Benning has defeated Florida, Oglethorpe and several other colleges. The game Saturday will be preceded by a City League game between Coca-Cola and the Power Company. First game at 1:30 p. m. The game on Sunday starts at 2:30 p. m. Tubby Walton will umpire.

Petrel Frosh Track Team Wants Meets

The Oglethorpe Freshman track team would like to arrange meets with other frosh outfits or prep school teams. The Freshman team this year is the best in the history of the university and should furnish good opposition for similar teams. Those interested, in bookies, meets with the frosh team should communicate with Fred Snook, at Main 4798.

Initial games in the Dixie Girls' Volley Ball league were played Friday night at the Y. W. C. A. with Western Heights and the Third Baptist teams winning.

Western Heights defeated Pattillo Memorial in the curtain-raiser, 22 to 11. The work of Misses Barnett and Cannon featured for the winners. Miss Evans, of the Pattillo team, played a good game for her side.

First Methodist fought gamely but was outplayed by the Third Baptist team and the score ended 38 to 6. Games will be played every Friday night on the Y. W. C. A. court.

Bears Beat Oglethorpe 11 to 9, in Ten Innings

Game Featured by Squabbles, Plenty of Bingles, and Two Home Runs—Second Tilt Played Today.

BY ALTON REDFERN.

HOMASVILLE, GA., April 22.—(Special.)—In a game featuring squabbles and plenty of base hits, the Mercer Bears took the measure of the Oglethorpe Petrels, 11 to 9, here Friday afternoon in the first of a two-game series. It was the first defeat suffered by the Bears at the hands of an S. I. A. A. opponent this year.

The Bears pounced on the Petrels in the first frame for enough runs to win any ordinary ball game. In this stanza the Macon institution succeeded in pushing over six markers. Two hits at the opportune time, a couple of miscues on the part of the Birds and the wildness of Pitcher Vaughan, Petrel hurling ace, were responsible for the Bears runs.

The Maconites continued to pound away in the third when they negotiated two more scores. The Petrels, still fighting to overcome what seemed to be an impossibility, kept clinging on and managed to get one in the fifth and one in the sixth. But in the seventh Coach Frank Anderson's line-bullers came to bat with blood in their eyes, or at least that is what it all amounted to before the smoke cleared away, for three Oglethorpe runners had crossed the platter, placing them out in front by a run.

The lead was short-lived, though, and in the tenth the Macon boys pushed over two more runs to win a hard-fought game, a game full of thrills and to include their two-game series in Homasville this afternoon. Overstreet will twirl for the Bears and Vaughan of Hudson will assume mound duties for the Atlantas.

Clemson Nine Routed By Bulldogs, 8 to 4

Stewart, Hurling For Georgia, Gives Up Total of Seven Hits—Two Teams Play Again Today.

BY MARCUS BRYANT.
THENS, GA., April 22.—(Special).—While Lefty Stewart enjoyed a good afternoon and his mates were hitting opportunely, the Georgia Bulldogs scored an 8 to 4 victory over the Clemson Tigers here today. A final of the series will be played tomorrow and Shaky Kain will pitch for the Athletics.

The visitors were blanked, with the exception of the fifth and ninth innings, as Stewart kept his seven surrendered hits well divided throughout the game. He retired eight visitors on strikeouts and walked five.

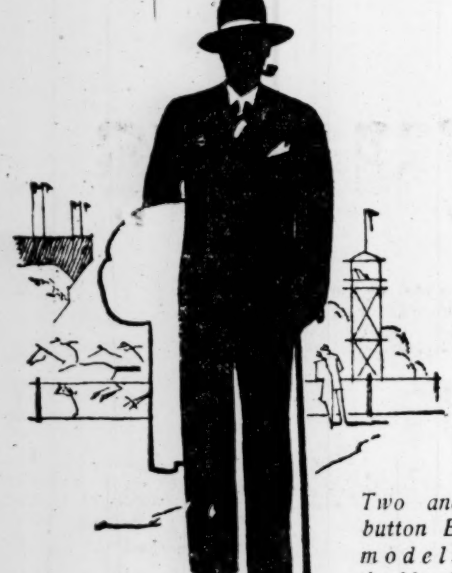

Clemson used a trio of chunkers. Gibson started and was relieved by Martin in the seventh, when the former walked a Bulldog with the bases drunk.

Martin made way for Mahaffey in the eighth, who was untroubled in the way of hits.

One run, one hit and an error gave the Bulldogs a run in the second. Chaffin's triple was the bright light in the third, when the Bulldogs scored two runs. The seventh was the big inning of the game, five runs being registered by the Georgians in this frame. Skeet Johnson grounded out, Stewart beat out a bunt, Chaffin and Arenowitch hit safely and Flowers walked, scoring Stewart. On a passed ball, Chaffin scored. Arenowitch going to third. Shiver then struck out and Nash got an infield hit, scoring Arenowitch. Nash then stole second, and when H. F. Johnson singled to right, Flowers and Nash crossed the plate.

Half of the Clemson counters came in the fifth. Moore walked, Jones' single sending him to second. Penman grounded out. Moore taking third, and Jones going to second. Gibson singled, scoring Moore and Jones. After another out, Stewart walked two visitors in order, but Dunlap was an easy final out. A couple of Bulldog errors aided materially with Dunlap's single furnished the visitors' remaining runs in the ninth. H. F. Johnson started in hitting for the Bulldogs with three hits, including a three-base drive, while Skeet Johnson, Nash and Chaffin contributed a brace of safe blows each. Dunlap's hitting featured for the visitors.

LOOKOUTS, BARONS SPLIT TWIN BILL.

Birmingham, Ala., April 22.—After Chattanooga ran wild in the opening game of today's doubleheader, 23 to 7, Birmingham came back in the nightcap, 6 to 0, to even the count. Eighteen Chattanooga hits were combined with six Birmingham errors in the first game, while Morrell held the visitors to two hits in the second to turn in an almost perfect record.

Barons, of the Barons, and Hippa, for the Lookouts, hit home runs in the opening contest. The Barons made three pitchers in a vain effort to stem the Lookout attack, while Chattanooga won two pitchers to the hill in the second game. Five double plays were executed in the opening game, all by the Barons.

HAWK-EYEING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS

Weather—And Other Things.
After reading that "Fred Johnson is as large as Walter Johnson and has great speed" we are in a mood to believe almost anything—even the calendar, when the thermometer calls it a liar.

Before cussing further about the weather it might be interesting to state that The Big Train is six feet, one and one-half inches in height and weighs 200 pounds in fine condition while the Nashville ace is less than six feet and weighs something less than 180. Incidentally, he may have a great speed ball but he doesn't use it now. There is a great similarity in the two Johnsons, however, in the fact that they both win ball games and both wear uniforms. They also have a common habit of throwing a baseball toward the plate. Further comparison is like saying that Mene Pavlova and Gilda Gray are just alike because they both dance.

Thursday may have been the two-to-two day of April but if so its conduct was positively libelous. It was a great day for the ball players. The stiff correspondents in the press box couldn't write ciphers in the box score totals because many a pencil would move in a circle and one scorer who tried to use a fountain pen was scribbling with a black pencil within the first five minutes. Fortunately, there were no spit ball pitchers on the mound. If there had been there might have been a raised whenever a ball was hit.—And that's a pun.

Two Kings in Town.
The bell on the social register (if social registers, like cash, ring a bell) should ring loud and lustily today because there are two Kings in town and one of them is a queen.

William King is one of them and he carries the title of the world's leading expert at pocket billiards, while Bertha M. King is world's woman champion at the same game.

If Mrs. King were to enter your office today you would undoubtedly place her in the mental catalogue as president of the Ladies Aid society of the east, north, south or west side church. And Mr. King might well be one of the deacons. A bit of conversation with this gray-haired man and his pleasant-spoken wife would convince you of the above presumption if they did not show you a scrap book full of pictures showing them both in action around the green cloth.

Mrs. King has been champion of women in the difficult game of pocket billiards since 1910, and though many have assayed to take her honors, none has yet succeeded. Mr. and Mrs. King will play exhibition games at York's recreation parlor, 117 N. Pryor St., on April 26, 27 and 28.

The public is invited to attend and no charge will be made either at the afternoon performance, which begins at 2:30 each day, or in the evenings at 7:30. Ladies are particularly invited to be present.

National League

PIRATES WIN AGAIN.

Pittsburgh, April 22.—Pittsburgh continued on the victory path by defeating Cincinnati, 3 to 1, today. The unexpected loss of Meadows held the Reds in the pinches while Pittsburgh lunched hits, walks and errors in three innings. Wright, Pirate shortstop, accepted 10 chances without a slip while Rhine, pitcher, made eight errors, less plays. League batted a good game for the Reds, holding the Pirates to nine hits, three of which were launched in the sixth inning. Some 4,000 fans were on hand, despite the noon freezing weather.

"Fair and Warner." The final performance of that altogether delightful comedy, "Fair and Warner," in which Madge Kennedy and Sidney Blackmer have been delighting capacity audiences at the Erlanger theater this week, will take place on Sunday, when the play will be presented in its beautiful playhouse today, matinee and night. The coming week is being looked forward to with keen interest, as it will serve to introduce "The Mountain Man," a love story of the south. This was the play in which Sidney Blackmer first attained stellar fame. The advance sale for the coming week has been unusually large, and an early reservation of tickets is strongly advised.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

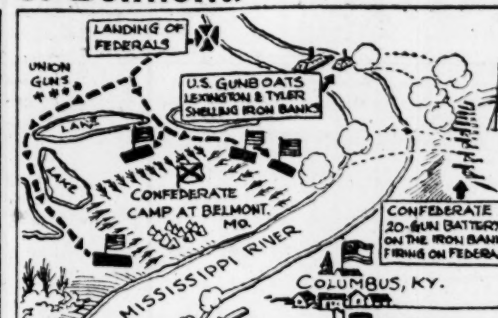

ON NOVEMBER, 1861, GEN. ULYSSES S. GRANT LEARNED THAT THE CONFEDERATE GENERAL POLK WAS PLANNING TO SEND TROOPS FROM COLUMBUS TO AID GEN. PRICE IN MISSOURI. TO PREVENT THIS, GRANT RESOLVED TO THREATEN COLUMBUS BY AN ATTACK ON THE SOUTHERN CAMP AT BELMONT ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE MISSISSIPPI. ON NOV. 6TH GRANT WITH ABOUT 3,000 MEN SET OUT FROM CAIRO IN FOUR TRANSPORTS ESCORTED BY THE GUNBOATS "LEXINGTON" AND "TYLER."

ON NOVEMBER 7TH THE FEDERALS LANDED ON THE MISSOURI SHORE A FEW MILES ABOVE BELMONT AND AFTER FORMING INTO TWO BRIGADES UNDER GEN. MCCLERNAND AND COL. DOUGHERTY, MARCHED ON THE CAMP OF THE CONFEDERATES. REACHING THEIR OBJECTIVE THE UNION INFANTRY CHARGED WITH FIXED BAYONETS THROUGH THE FALLEN TIMBER OBSTRUCTIONS THAT LAY AROUND THE ENCAMPMENT.

The Battle of Belmont.

THE CONFEDERATES, REINFORCED BY TROOPS FROM COLUMBUS UNDER GEN. PILLOW AND SUPPORTED BY THE FIRE OF BATTERIES ON THE KENTUCKY SHORE, FOUGHT BRAVELY, BUT AFTER A FIERCE STRUGGLE THAT LASTED SIX HOURS THE CAMP WAS TAKEN AND DESTROYED. IN THE ENGAGEMENT EACH SIDE LOST MORE THAN 600 MEN.

HAVING ACCOMPLISHED HIS PURPOSE, GRANT ORDERED HIS MEN TO RETREAT. THOUGH UNDER FIRE EVERY STEP OF THE WAY THE FEDERALS REACHED THE TRANSPORTS, EMBARKED UNDER THE PROTECTION OF THE GUNBOATS, AND RETURNED TO CAIRO THAT NIGHT.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

THE HAPPINESS OF THIS FORCED VACATION WAS ABRUPTLY BROKEN EARLY IN THE FOLLOWING JANUARY WHEN A NUMBER OF THE MEN FELL ILL OF A MYSTERIOUS DISEASE. WE DO NOT KNOW TO THIS DAY WHAT IT WAS, BUT IT IS BELIEVED THAT THE ILLNESS WAS YELLOW FEVER. AMONG THOSE WHO DIED WAS DR. FRANCIS DRAKE. AS THE END CAME, DR. DRAKE KNEW THAT HE HAD BROUGHT THIS YOUTH SO FAR FROM THE HOMELAND TO MEET AN UNTIMELY DEATH UNDER SUCH STRANGE CIRCUMSTANCES. WITH THE DETERMINATION AND ENTERPRISE OF THE GREAT COMMANDER THAT HE WAS, DR. DRAKE MADE UP HIS MIND TO FIND OUT IF POSSIBLE WHAT CAUSED THE DISEASE. HE FELT THIS NECESSARY TO PUT AN END TO THE PANIC THAT WAS SEIZING ALL THE MEN. TO ACCOMPLISH THIS, HE HAD A SURGEON, TOOK HIS BROTHER'S BODY FOR DISSECTION. IN THOSE FAR OFF DAYS DISSECTION OF A HUMAN BODY WAS REGARDED AS SACRILEGE, BUT THE MEN COULD NOT PROTEST UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES. DRAKE HIMSELF WORKED WITH THE SURGEON IN THE EXAMINATION. WITH THE LIMITED KNOWLEDGE THE MEN HAD, THEY, OF COURSE, LEARNED NOTHING. TWENTY-EIGHT OF THE SMALL COMPANY DIED OF THE FEVER. ONLY FORTY-TWO OF THE ORIGINAL COMPANY NOW SURVIVED.

Sir Francis Drake

THE CIMARONOS NOW REPORTED TO DR. DRAKE THAT THE SPANISH GALLEONS, GOLD LADEN, HAD ARRIVED AT NOMBRE DE DIOS. IMMEDIATELY THE INTREPID COMMANDER ORGANIZED FOR HIS MARCH TO CAPTURE THE GOLD. THE DEPT. WERE HIS FORCES FROM ILLNESS AND WOUNDS THAT ONLY EIGHTEEN ENGLISHMEN AND THIRTY PICKED CIMARONOS COMPOSED THE ATTACKING PARTY. THE MARCH STARTED OVERLAND UNDER GUIDANCE OF THE CIMARONOS, TOWARD NOMBRE DE DIOS. THEIR JOURNEY LAY THROUGH FORESTS, THE TRAIL USUALLY RUNNING CLOSE BY A RIVERSIDE, AND AMONG THE LOW FOOTHILLS OF THE CORDILLERAS. BY NIGHT THEY CAMPED IN HOUSES QUICKLY BUILT OF LOGS AND GREAT LEAVES BY THE CIMARONOS. LUSCIOUS FRUITS ABUNDED, INCLUDING PINEAPPLE, ORANGES, LEMONS AND GUAVAS.

DEANS' OFFICIALS FOR YEAR NAMED

Election of officers and several interesting addresses brought to a close the annual conference of the National Association of College Deans at the Henry Grady hotel.

Dean S. H. Goodnight, of the University of Wisconsin, was named president to succeed Floyd Field, of Georgia Tech, and F. M. Dawson, of the University of Kansas, was named secretary. Following election of officers the association voted to meet next year at the University of Colorado, at Boulder, Colo.

The visiting deans were entertained Friday night with an informal dinner at the home of Dean and Mrs. Ford, following an afternoon trip to Stone Mountain and luncheon at Emory university.

Talks will be made this morning by Dean J. W. Armstrong, of Northwest University, Evanston, Ill., on discipline, and Dean C. L. Floyd, of North Carolina State college, Raleigh, N. C., on personnel departments.

Speakers at Friday's sessions were Dean M. E. Garber, of Morningside college, Sioux City, Iowa, who spoke on freshmen's problems, and Dean C. R. Melcher, of the University of Kentucky, who talked on problems facing the student who works his way through college.

Scholarship in relation to fraternity life is one of the many subjects under discussion at the conference. One of the ardent proponents of higher scholastic standards is A. E. Duer, member of the scholarship committee of the inter-fraternity conference.

Repeals of some of the inter-fraternity men Mr. Duer believes the fraternity men themselves are imposing upon themselves the task of raising their standards by legislation. He said that admission requirements, thus stimulating the students to a higher plane.

EDWARDS FREED BY ROME JURY

Rome, Ga., April 22.—(Special.) McKinley Edwards, 35, tried here on a charge of having murdered his brother, Allen Edwards, 22, on March 12, was acquitted this afternoon by a jury in Floyd superior court. The jury was out about 40 minutes.

Young Edwards was shot to death on a prominent up-town street by his brother as a result of an alleged love triangle that involved the two brothers and the slayer's wife, who was seated in Allen's automobile waiting for him as he was shot to death by his brother, the woman's husband, as he approached his car.

A feature of today's testimony was the statement of Edwards, who charged that his brother took his wife from him and she was sent to the slayer's home, where she was kept in a rooming house. Edwards said he was not present when his brother was shot.

A recital of alleged infidelity of his wife and the treachery of his brother, whom he slew, featured the statement of defendant, who said that after being "framed" by his brother and wife by "planted" liquor being found on his farm he was sent to the slayer's home, where she was kept in a rooming house.

The trial opened Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the city court. Edwards was represented by Porter & Mebane and Solicitor Fred Kelly and Assistant Solicitor Neil Andrews. The case was heard by Judge James M. Moxley, of the Floyd circuit, presided.

York Again Hits Charter Proposal To Police Watch

Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, Friday again took the stump in opposition to the proposed city manager charter for Atlanta, speaking to members of the evening watch at the Atlanta police station.

The speaker charged that the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has sought financial aid of the city government on several occasions and that despite this, the executive committee of that body has placed itself on record as favoring the change.

He explained his address Wednesday night in the sixth ward in which the attack directed at the chamber of commerce was made against The City Builder, official organ of that body.

"I did not mean to indict The City Builder, but did most assuredly mean to tell the public of actions of the chamber in the matter," Mr. York said.

"The publication merely carried a report of what the executive committee did. The city of Atlanta gave $24,000 to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for the year 1926. It has been paid. The 1926 appropriation of $24,000 was expended in the year and was not paid. In 1925 the city gave to the industrial bureau and The City Builder, both subsidiaries of the chamber, $7,500 and in 1924 to the same institutions $3,000.

"If this does not substantiate my claim that the chamber of commerce has repeatedly appealed to the present government for support, gotten it and then taken a stand aimed to destroy this system and set up another, I am at a loss to explain the organization to explain why it doesn't."

"The figures I am offering to you were taken from the records in the chamber of commerce, which are authentic and are authentic."

FOSTER MOTHER FREED OF CHARGE

stick to her stories of burnings and other cruelty. For two hours, apparently enjoying herself hugely, she told of supposed wrongs at the hands of her foster-mother, who sat impassively regarding the child.

George Gordon Battle, counsel for Mrs. Pratt, won the day on cross-examination.

Under his guiding questions, Roberta admitted unlimited kindness and opportunities furnished by her foster-parents.

"Did you sometimes tell stories and take things?" she was asked.

"Oh, yes," replied Roberta. The child admitted having played with matches and a cigarette and, after having hidden the evidence under the sofa, having told her foster-mother that "a strange man came in and tried to light a cigarette and threw them there."

"You've told a good many stories like that, haven't you?"

"Oh, yes."

"You remember playing with this?"

"Yes," said Roberta unconcernedly. Her burns, around her ankles, as though she had been playing with matches, were exhibited.

"You'd have been afraid to tell your mother if you had burned yourself, wouldn't you?" the lawyer asked.

"Yes, but I didn't," replied the girl. Roberta said her mother had burned her, pushing the iron into her shoes.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

INSTALLMENT XII CHANGES.

Willie had left his mackintosh in the hall together with his hat and his gloves, but he retained a huge nose-sock done up in lace paper and came tripping in with airy confidence and a sweet smile, which dropped when he saw Lilla.

The princess gave him her gloved fingertips, sniffed gingerly at his offering, and advanced straight to the point.

"I suppose you've come along to tell me to hold my tongue about that precious Mrs. Tancred," she said fiercely. "Now haven't you?"

Willie looked abashed, but there were few occasions to which was not equal. "Good gracious, no! Why should any one hold one's tongue about anything? Let me in, if there's any scandal going about. Lilla—have you been telling the princess naughty stories?"

After some more of this bantering perillage Lilla was forced to give Willie Moppet best. He tangled the princess up, thoroughly confusing her, appeared easily astonished that any stress should be laid upon what was certainly in his opinion a case of mistaken identity, refused to be serious, and, man of the world that he was, re-rended the old lady that Alan Brooke, being a genius, it would be rather foolish to stress the importance of his alliances, matrimonial or otherwise.

"And in that respect I've some interesting news for you," he added. "It happens that Brooke is married, but you guess a long time before you struck on who his wife is. At least, he says she's his wife, and there's a ready-made boy of four or five to complete the little family."

His listeners gasped as one woman. But Lilla was brighter than he thought.

"I know," she said. "It's that Italian woman who keeps house for him."

"You're right," he admitted. "Married to his cook?" cried the princess. "That's a slap in our faces, if you like."

"Isn't it?" Willie murmured. "Perhaps Brooke didn't want to risk any more mistakes. I strolled up there this morning and found him just back from Turin with Cristina and this child. No one could doubt Crie's respectability, but she's not very happy. In fact, I'd say she was thoroughly miserable. Brooke's dressed her up like a picture in pure silk and amber beads and bought himself a broad-brimmed felt hat. He says it's a time he looked like a sculptor. Even talks of growing a beard. There was something fierce about him that puzzled me."

Mr. Moppet's old young eyes meditated briefly upon Lilla and she remembered what he had said to her that night after his party. He was out for raw rewards, and it was up to her to join him if she wished to share them.

The princess chuckled with laughter. She was diverted into new channels along with the scandal, and it was as though by the purchase of his broad-brimmed hat Alan Brooke had at the same time bought immunity for whatever social sins he might have committed in the past.

"He's an interesting devil," commented the princess, relaxing to the humilities. "Yes, I think you must be right. Doubtless I made a mistake about Mrs. Tancred. We have our doubts. Why, I myself—years ago it often happened that when I entered my box at the opera the audience rose and—you might say, they cheered. They took me for a queen. And here she named a personage of considerable higher rank even than herself."

Willie Moppet wagged a malicious finger. "If he makes Cristina call on you—"

"I shall receive her," the old lady assured him gleefully. "Alan Brooke shan't have the satisfaction of thinking he's played me for a fool. 'Only—"

—she added—"of course she won't call. An Italian peasant would have too much good sense."

Willie and Lilla Brant left together. They had a couple of miles to trudge back, but the rain had stopped and Willie's feet were protected by his galoshes.

"Now," said Lilla, when they were clear of Castello Dobbert. "You'd better tell me all about this, although I have a theory of my own, of course."

"Suppose you tell me your theory first," he suggested, the little lines about his eyes crinkling.

"I think Alan Brooke is raising a defense for himself against Sophy," she replied.

It might be as Lilla Brant suggested, for certainly something had happened to Alan during his pilgrimage to the stricken mountain village.

To begin with, he missed the train connection at Genoa, and Christina along with it, and wished then he had gone by way of Tenda, motorizing the whole distance. He found things bad at Porzard, although the epidemic had not reached the farm. But with characteristic fatality Cristina's people were waiting for it.

But Alan managed to drag her away. Too long had he indulged his inertia toward the commonplace duties of life. He saw, quite apart from the typhoid epidemic, that this was a critical moment for his child. Little John Brooke was more positively Giovanni of the Pergarda farm than even a few months ago. A little Italian vanni of the Pergarda farm than even sign of the horns and spit at the shadow of strangers, as witness his reception of a party of American tourists who halted briefly at the farm to inquire their way of his grandfather.

The time had come when Alan was obliged to make a decision. He couldn't let the boy grow up like that, and although he hated this great moral responsibility and the nuisance of shouldering it, there was no other way out. There was a scoundrel had worn itself out.

But, no. Back they came—Alan, Cristina and Giovanni—stopping two nights at a small hotel in Turin kept by Cristina's uncle and getting ready to face a new sort of life together. A defense against Sophy, perhaps. Alan thought of the woman who shepherded Cristina to the shops and bought her clothes of the fancy dress ball order and himself a broad-brimmed black hat. But Giovanni was fitted out at an English shop and emerged from the fray clad in a knitted jersey suit, a diminutive Murillo modernized. White sailor suit with blue piping and a tin whistle on a plaited cord to hang around his neck.

Cristina was proud, mystified and secretly terror-stricken. What would the gentry of Bordighera say? But more particularly, how would she find a comfortable place for herself under these changed conditions? She thought of her friendship with Maria Frensi, whose husband was a cobbler, and of the gossiping monkeys in the old town, when she went bareheaded, with a shawl over her shoulders, from one little shop to another, a market basket on her arm. Alan said she must not go to the old town any more, but must employ a servant to do the marketing and the rough work of the Casa Poverina. Yet, who among those who had been her friends would come to work under her? A peasant does not work for his own class except on terms of equality.

All this, of course, was not taken into account by Alan. He himself was indifferent equally of the Princess Dobbert and of the cobbler's wife. In the excitement of making Cristina into a lovely picture and Giovanni into British John—not so easy, that last—Alan had a notion that he might also be indifferent to what Sophy Tancred thought of it all.

Ah, but it was a fleeting notion. He did care. She was there in his mind all the time, lovely, fair-haired Sophy—the wife of his youth, the mistress of his heart—and everything else was merely makeshift to ease spiritual torment. For 10 years he had struggled to sublimate the longing for her in savage indulgence of his art and his art had been best by hard curses.

Dodge Arrested
After Fighting
Newspaper MenSan Francisco, April 22.—(AP)— Horace E. Dodge, Jr., member of De-toit family of former motor car manufacturers, was at liberty on $500 bail here today on charges of assault and battery, preferred against him by newspapermen whom he greeted with flying fists.The interviewers found Dodge aboard the steamship President Madison after his arrival here from Honolulu where he was reported to have sought reconciliation with his wife.
Mrs. Dodge returned to San Francisco on the same vessel from the islands refusing an interview beyond the feeble denial that there had been a reconciliation. When newspapermen asked Dodge about it the battle began.After locking reporters in his stateroom, knocking down a cameraman, wrecking his camera, and engaging in a fist fight with John McDonald, newspaperman, who apparently gave him the word of the deal, Dodge sought refuge on the steamer and when he finally did walk down the gangway to the dock he was arrested.
Taken to city jail and released after the $500 bail had been furnished by Herbert Luther, a friend.
Then was resumed the pursuit of Dodge by newspapermen who had not yet learned whether the millionaire and his wife were reconciled. Dodge and Luther were whisked through heavy traffic in the automobile of Conrad Kahn, son of Congressman
Kahn, but after a while Dodge evidently tired of the chase, had Kahn stop the car and granted a newspaperman an interview.
"There has been no reconciliation," Dodge said. "I went to Honolulu not for the purpose of seeking a reconciliation with my wife, but on a matter involving the signature of some papers.""It just happened that my wife was on the same boat on which I took passage for my return to San Francisco, I did not see her during the trip, for I kept to my stateroom."
Contrary to Dodge's assertion that he did not see his wife while they were en route to San Francisco from Honolulu, passengers aboard the boat declared here that Mrs. Dodge was constantly in the company of a man known as "James Edgewood," who "Grass Point, Mich." and whose name on the purser's book was folto clear up certain details in connection with the development.

One step in the project will be the erection of a power plant to cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 to furnish electric current to the plant. Another will be the erection of a plant to supply water for the project, which, it was stated, will consume more water than is now used in Richmond, Washington and Baltimore combined.

The Virginia Electric and Power company is working with the engineers of the chemical company on the power requirements of the project. William E. Wood, president of the power company, declared today. It is possible, Mr. Wood said, that his company will build a plant to furnish all or part of the power required, but no decision has been reached as yet.

"We are cooperating with them."

Mr. Wood said, "and will help them. The entire matter is yet too indefinite for any speculation."

Thirty million dollars is the tentative estimate of the cost of the nitrogen project. The News Leader said it learned from authoritative quarters.

"Officers of the company," it added.

Children's Living Tableaux To Feature Church Services

Standing in a great picture frame, place above the pulpit of the Baptist tabernacle, three four-year-old children on Sunday morning will present living tableaux and give a number of songs. They are representatives of the beginning's department of the Tabernacle Sunday school. The youth full trip, consists of Sara Matthews, Betty Wood and Eumman Houghton.

The daily evangelistic services now in progress, with the pastor, E. Will H. Houghton, speaking twice daily, are bringing splendid results. Several scores of persons having announced their conversion and joined the church since the revival began one week ago.

There will be no services today but on Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock there will be combined church and Sunday school services, with the regular evening service at 7:30 o'clock. The Aida Brass quartet, famous New York instrumental organization, is playing at every service and will continue throughout the campaign, which is to continue through May 1. Living tableaux and songs are given at each service, with the church darkness, and special spotlight effects making impressive pictures of the soloists and other participants.

On Friday night about 2,500 people heard Dr. Houghton preach "The Line Is Busy." The preacher opened his sermon by stressing the importance of the line.

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY HEADS GUESTS AT DINNER

Officials of the Georgia Power company were guests Friday night at a banquet at the Peacock cafe given in their honor by members of the supervisory staff of the transportation department of the company.

The banquet, given each year, marks a period of progress in the duties of giving Atlanta street railway service.

P. S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company, thanked the supervisory staff of the efforts they have extended in improving Atlanta's street railway system until now it ranks with the best in the nation. He also gave a brief history and account of the street railway system and the improvements that have been made in it during the past few years.

SUNDAY MOVIES VOTE PASSES IN TENNESSEE

Lakewood Meet Attracts 4,000 Fulton Pupils

Despite cold winds, more than 4,000 students of the Fulton county school system Friday afternoon competed for a large loving cup offered by The Constitution as the principal trophy to be awarded in the first county-wide track, field and athletic meet. The winner had not been determined at a late hour Friday night.

The affair was held at Lakewood park, the south's greatest recreational center, and J. Oscar Mills, secretary of the Southeastern Fair association, and other officials of that organization, turned the grounds completely over to the largest group of school children to visit the grounds during the 1927 season.

Although the winner of The Constitution prize had not been determined Friday night, it was officially stated that Hapeville won the Parks Chambers loving cup given for the championship boys' basketball team. The Hapeville five won the distinction by defeating the Macon Smith squad in an exciting game, which ended with Hapeville 9 and the Smith aggregation 7.

The Smith girls' team fared better in the girls' struggle in the same event and emerged victors over the E. Rivers school five by a tally of 17 to 13, thus capturing the loving cup trophy offered by the Georgia Power company. A condition to keeping the cups is that they must be won twice consecutively by the same school, and both champions will be forced to defend their titles with the trophies at stake in a similar struggle next year.

Eugene Gilliland, of Fulton High school, won the mile run in five minutes and 28 seconds. This was considered good time for a high school trackman.

"Fulton county schools are deeply indebted to Mr. Mills and the fair association for the many courtesies extended to us during our visit to Lakewood," Mr. Wells said.

A special musical concert has been arranged for Sunday afternoon at Lakewood, with the 122d infantry band, Georgia National Guard. The program will begin promptly at 3 o'clock.

Farm Foreclosures Began in 1921 and have steadily continued. They are slowing down now.

Many farms have been taken over by merchants, bankers, local lenders and life insurance companies—taken reluctantly and unwillingly. They want to sell them.

Only one transfer of these farms has occurred—the transfer from the farmers to their creditors. There the ownership, in most cases, stands today.

But with the next sale and transfer, these farms will pass to strong and permanent holders, and Georgia people will have lost their chance of getting them cheap.

We are headquarters for Georgia farms. Now is the time to buy.

Announcement

July 1, 1905, the Walter Ballard Optical Co. opened for business on Peachtree street.

Our store and plant was sufficiently large to take care of Atlanta and the surrounding state for exclusive high-class optical service.

We had faith in Atlanta's future, faith in our great Southland and faith in our ability to serve the public, so we have gradually grown with our great city, adding every known improvement to our facilities as advancements required from time to time.

We now announce the opening of another store in the new Medical Arts Building, 360 Peachtree street, for the convenience of our patrons.
